

SIFT CLEWS IN GIRLS' DEATHS

JAPAN TO LINK
MANDATE ISLES
WITH AIR LINESPrepares to Tighten
Grip in Pacific.

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Japan is preparing to hurl southward, like huge grappling hooks, thousands of miles of air lines to fasten her Pacific island possessions and mandates more firmly to the homeland.

Two naval aviators who sailed recently from Yokohama are now surveying the route between Salpau and Palau, using a seaplane of 1,200 miles' cruising radius. Their arrival was prepared for by establishment of meteorological observatories and radio stations at Salpau, Palau, and Truk.

Link with Japan Proper.

The Japanese hope to link this inter-island service later with Japan proper in an air service from Tokyo to Salpau by way of the Bonin Islands. An appropriation to subsidize this new route was contained in the government's 1935-36 budget just completed.

The Tokio-Bonin Islands line will be the first link of a projected air line to join the imperial capital with its farthest flung mandates one third of the way across the Pacific, lying directly athwart the projected American air routes from California to the Philippines and China. Thus far there has been no indication that the Japanese government will open its landing fields to the airplanes of other nations.

The Japanese, while not actually barring civilian travelers from the equatorial Pacific mandated islands, have not encouraged foreigners to visit them, while at least two requests for permission for United States naval vessels to cruise through them have been denied.

Japan Holds Firm Sway.

The Marianne and Caroline island groups, former German possessions, were occupied by the Japanese navy at the outset of the world war and Japan now holds firm sway, nominally under the mandate of the league of nations.

There have been suggestions abroad, never proved, that Japan's building of extensive harbors and laying out of airplane landing fields have been for naval or military purposes.

Although Japan is scheduled to secede finally from the league on March 27, 1935, the Japanese government has announced that it has no intention ever of surrendering possession of the former German archipelagos.

The navy insists that the islands represent Japan's "life line," an important defensive outpost in the Pacific, and that it would be fatal to Japan's security if they ever pass under control of another power. Therefore Japan will fight, if necessary, to retain them.

Jap Foreign Chief Optimistic.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

TOKIO, Nov. 26 (Monday).—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota remains as confident as ever of the ultimate success of the London naval talks, a spokesman declared this morning. He scouted the idea that Japan is out to wreck the parity.

Admitting that pessimistic rumors are circulating, Hirota declared they are due mainly to American and British pessimism, which he feels is unwarranted.

"Even though the preliminary negotiations do not end in success," the spokesman declared, "there is nothing to get worried about. The Washington conference was held without preliminary talks. Moreover, if an agreement cannot be reached at the next conference, we can hold another one the following year."

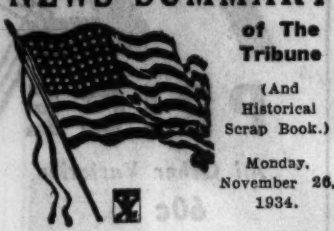

The spokesman flatly denied that Japan has entered into an alliance with Great Britain or Germany. He scoffed at the idea there is any likelihood of an entente or alliance in the near or distant future, declaring that alliances are outdated.

Japan Outlines Pact Plan.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A tentative arrangement for Japan's forthcoming denunciation of the Washington treaty was outlined to United States Ambassador at Large Norman H. Davis today by Ambassador Tetsuo Matsuoka of Japan during a golf match. The date for the denunciation has not been set, although it may be made about Dec. 10.

Matsuoka and Davis discussed the general outlook, but nothing the Japanese ambassador said changed the situation, it was stated, and the hope for a compromise naval agreement was not improved.

FIND MYSTERY
IN $46,000 OF
'COUP PLOTTER'U. S. Board Quizzes
Butler's Salesman.

New York, Nov. 25.—(Special.)—That Gerald C. MacGuire, named by Gen. Smedley Butler as the man who urged him to head a Fascist coup in America, had an unexplained $46,000 in his bank accounts was the declaration today of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities. The statement was made after a complete check of MacGuire's bank and brokerage dealings.

Otherwise the alleged plot failed to emerge in any alarming proportions when the statement of the evidence before it made by the committee was made public.

The statement, signed by Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, chairman, and Representative Samuel Dickstein of New York, vice chairman, said in its first paragraph:

"This committee has had no evidence before it that would in the slightest degree warrant calling before it such men as John W. Davis, Gen. Hugh Johnson, Gen. James G. Harbord, Thomas W. Lamont, Admiral William S. Sims, or Harford MacNider." These and other persons have been named in reports growing out of Gen. Butler's appearance before the committee.

Plan to Call Clark.

Without passing judgment on the evidence before the committee, the two chairmen indicated they intend to pursue their inquiry further by calling Robert Sterling Clark, wealthy New Yorker, and his attorney, Albert G. Christmas, on their return from Europe. They will be examined in Washington.

Mr. Clark, reputed to have inherited millions from his father, one of the founders of the Singer Sewing Machine company, is represented by the statement as having financed to the extent of about $100,000 the activities of MacGuire during the period last year and this year, when Gen. Butler testified MacGuire tried to persuade him to lead an army of 500,000 soldiers to go to Washington.

Has $16,000 Cash Available.

That part of the report devoted to MacGuire's bank accounts contains this information: That MacGuire had available about $16,000 in cash, largely in $1,000 bills, at the time when Gen. Butler testified MacGuire came to him in a Newark hotel and threw $18,000 in $1,000 bills on the bed to persuade Butler to go to the American Legion convention in Chicago. MacGuire admitted calling on Butler, but denied offering him any money, the report stated.

MacGuire attended the Legion convention in October and had with him at least $30,000 in letters of credit, funds advanced by Mr. Clark or Mr. Christmas, the report stated. MacGuire was not only a delegate but also a member of the distinguished guest committee of the convention.

Makes No Explanation.

MacGuire in his testimony made no explanation of his expenditure while in Chicago, but the report pointed out that the convention passed the resolution endorsing the gold standard which Butler said MacGuire wanted him to urge in a speech at the convention.

Part of the financial picture centered around "The Committee for a Sound Dollar and Sound Currency, Inc." MacGuire is said to have testified that Clark gave him $30,000 to that committee and that Walter E. Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank and Trust company paid $10,000 toward the committee. At the present time the committee for a Sound Dollar has a balance of $24. The names of Clark, Christmas, and Frew do not appear in the records of the committee, the report stated.

MacGuire is represented as testifying that he had bought and sold about 9 million dollars' worth of bonds for Clark at various times. He also testified that he had made a trip to Europe costing $8,000 for which Mr. Clark had paid. According to Gen. Butler's testimony, MacGuire, on his return from this trip, told him about his investigation of veteran organizations in Germany, Italy, and France.

THE GOLDEN EGG LAYER

Report Stoll Kidnaped Seen in Tennessee

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 26 (Monday).—(AP)—Police announced early today they had a report Thomas H. Robinson Jr., accused as the kidnaper of Mrs. Jerry V. Stoll of Louisville for $50,000 ransom, was seen late Saturday in Franklin, Tenn., eighteen miles from here.

They said every effort was being made to capture the former university student who was reported to police as hitch-hiking toward Nashville.

Tells of Hitch-Hike.

Word that Robinson was seen came to police through C. B. Faris, a Nashville insurance agent, who telephoned the Nashville police last night from Huntsville, Ala., where he had gone on business.

Police said Faris told them that, en route to Huntsville, he picked up two hitch-hikers, a man and wife. Their story was that Robinson hitch-hiked with them Saturday from Elizabethton, Tenn., to Franklin, Tenn. They identified the man, Faris said, by department of justice pictures.

"I don't have to hitch-hike, but I prefer to do so," they quoted the youth. He told them, they said, that he had plenty of money; that he had been in Chicago and was en route to Nashville and would return to Chicago in a few days.

Sends for Sandwich.

The couple asserted to Faris that the man gave the truck driver with whom they were riding "two or three bills" upon reaching Franklin. They did not learn the denomination. Then, they said, the youth gave the husband some money and asked him to go to a restaurant and buy a sandwich for him. He complied while the young man waited in the mouth of an alleyway.

The couple, whose home is in Huntsville, said further that the man, carrying a suitcase, obtained a ride on another truck headed toward Nashville. Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank and Trust company paid $10,000 toward the committee. At the present time the committee for a Sound Dollar has a balance of $24. The names of Clark, Christmas, and Frew do not appear in the records of the committee, the report stated.

Cain Raises a Bit of It Here; Abel
Goes East Alone

Cain and Abel are peddling Irish terriers. They are just six months old and brothers.

Last night they were in their comfortably padded crate at the union station, waiting to continue the tiresome journey from the Twin Acres farm, Dever, Colo., to their new owner, D. A. Mullett of Rye, N. Y.

In feeding the two young dogs, some one from the Railway Express agency left the crate open. Cain, traditionally more energetic than his brother, jumped through it. He backed good-by to Abel and raced gleefully out of the station into Canal street.

Edward Krause, manager of the express agency, pursued Cain for a block, but finally lost him in an alley which afforded delightful possibilities to a young dog. He notified the Des Plaines police of his loss.

In the meantime Abel was continuing his journey east without his brother.

MINSK, U. S. S. R., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Two farmers, Emilian Chubkov and Pavel Podniakov, were arrested today on a charge of murdering a collecting farm official who imposed a tax on Chubkov. Officials of the Dzerzhinsk village soviet said the men fired through a window, killing Gregory Turkunov.

France Expels 20 German Nudists as Spy Suspects

TOULOUSE, France, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Twenty German nudists, who were found dancing near a military airport, were expelled from France today on suspicion of espionage. Police said the group, including men and women, came to France in March as Jewish victims of Nazi persecution and set up a camp near Franczal airfield. All protested they were law students on their way to Palestine. They were clothed and escorted to the border.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Hopes for early identification of the three young girls whose bodies were found under a blanket on a mountainside here yesterday were raised tonight when Coroner E. A. Haegle left hurriedly by automobile for a point 10 miles north.

Dr. Haegle refused to discuss his trip, but it was believed to be in connection with a tentative identification of the girls made by Charles Burp of Carlisle, who said he believed they were the daughters of his sister, Mrs. Wilbur Ames of Young's Church.

Another possible clue was furnished by Charles Sease, who said the oldest girl resembled the daughter of a Ben Hinkle of Gettysburg.

Late tonight Paul White, a Harrisburg bus driver, said he was certain he carried the three children and a woman from New York to Harrisburg last Wednesday. He said he had viewed the bodies here and was sure they were the girls who rode with him. The woman had tickets from Boston. White described her as about 35 years old, and commonly dressed. He said he had described the children to investigators before he saw the bodies, even to a hole in the smallest child's coat. He particularly noticed her, he said, because he helped her get on and off the bus.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The three young girls whose bodies were found by hunters yesterday morning in a thicket of scrub oak on a mountainside ten miles south of Carlisle were still unidentified tonight.

Nearly five thousand persons from this and other nearby communities viewed the bodies today, but none was able to provide a clue as to who the children were or where they had come from.

The principal clue on which the police had to work was a black Gladstone bag and its contents, also found by a hunter Friday about three miles from where the bodies were later discovered.

The bag contained a number of children's dresses, a man's blue broadcloth shirt, and a woman's red beret and red and white shirtwaist. It also contained a woman's handbag, a box of face powder, and three children's belts.

Slayings May Be Clew.

Efforts were made during the day to link the deaths of the girls to those of a man and woman whose bodies were found Saturday in a deserted flag station at Spring Meadows, Pa. The couple had given the names of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Gardner, Philadelphia.

The dead woman was described as wearing a red skirt, and in the hope that the material might resemble that of the red and white shirtwaist found in the Gladstone bag, state police had the skirt sent to Harrisburg for comparison. Police pointed out, however, that the woman was not more than 25, and obviously could not be the mother of the girls.

Of the three belts in the bag one was identified as belonging to the coat worn by the eldest girl, who was about 14 years old; another was identified as belonging to the dress of a second girl, about 10 years old; and the third as belonging to the dress of the youngest girl, about 8.

Buttons May Prove Aid.

In the handbag, too, the police found two navy blue buttons and a green button. Two navy blue buttons were missing from the coat of the 10 year old girl, and the two found in the bag tallied exactly with those on the coat. The green button tallied with buttons on the coat of the youngest child, and one button was missing from the coat of the 14 year old girl.

Autopsies failed to disclose the cause of the girls' deaths. The eldest girl had a bad bruise near the left eye, but Coroner E. A. Haegle said he was convinced that the bruise was an old one and could not have caused death. Working on the theory that death may have been due to carbon monoxide or some other form of poison, Dr. Haegle had the vital organs sent to Dr. George R. Moffitt, pathologist at the Harrisburg hospital.

Dr. Moffitt said tonight it would probably be two or three days before the examination was complete.

Both state police and District Attorney Frederick J. M. Templeton of Cumberland county said tonight that there was no positive evidence that the children had been murdered.

Carlisle, Pa., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Hopes for early identification of the three young girls whose bodies were found under a blanket on a mountainside here yesterday were raised tonight when Coroner E. A. Haegle left hurriedly by automobile for a point 10 miles north.

Dr. Haegle refused to discuss his trip, but it was believed to be in connection caused the subject to marvel at such expensive enterprise.

"All I could tell that editor was that we were very happy and how many people had congratulated us," Insull said, "but I can imagine his writing 'In an exclusive interview by trans-Atlantic telephone,' etc. He did not get any information not already known here."

Spence in a dark suit and light colored waistcoat, spats, and tie, Insull senior preceded his small grandson into the room where the photographs were to be taken. Ruddy and smiling, he responded to greetings and took his seat on a divan full in the glare of a battery of powerful lights. Behind him, leading a small, heavily whiskered Scottish terrier, came Samuel Insull III—"Jack" for short—to his grandfather—who wore a white blouse, short trousers and a bright red "man's tie," the first such advanced garment he had ever possessed.

The Scotty pup, the boy's father explained, was named "Collie Glencannon," after a character in contemporary magazine fiction noted for his affinity to powerful Scotch whiskeys.

With "Glencannon" on his master's lap, between the boy's father and his grandfather, the photographing session began. It was interrupted shortly by the appearance of Mrs. Insull, trim in a dark suit and white blouse.

"What an army!" she gasped to the roomful of men and camera equipment.

"If I could only change my face for all this. It's awful to see yourself as you really are. Before I had all these newspaper pictures taken I used to fool myself, but when I saw myself as I really am, I said, 'O, my!'"

Sit for Family Portrait.

To the murmur of a chorus of gallant comment deprecating such an attitude, Mrs. Insull picked her way through the crowd to the divan and took her grandson upon her lap. His father retired behind the seat and leaned over his left facing the cameras. Nana, Mrs. Insull's French maid, took a station to one side, alternately watching her mistress and her other charge, Samuel III.

"Now, Glencannon," said Mrs. Insull to the pup, "I must smile and you must hold up your ears." So, while "Glencannon" nuzzled his black, button nose deep into the caressing palm of Insull senior, and small Samuel gazed wide-eyed at the cameras, the movie men wound cranks and shutters snapped on the "still" cameras.

"Look at grandpa, he's all dressed up," said Mrs. Insull, glancing at her husband. "I've been out celebrating," he chuckled. Samuel III, yielded to the urgings of the photographers and essayed a shy smile while "Glencannon" began a series of sharp yelps which not even his master could control.

The group soon broke up. Mrs. Insull's last comment was "I only wish I could have been in court to thank the jury."

Greeks Are Surprised.

ATHENS, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The acquittal of Samuel Insull by a Chicago court caused considerable surprise in Athens today, especially in American circles, which recalled the diplomatic and legal energy expended to obtain his extradition from Greece.

Those Greeks who placed obstacles in the way of American justice agents regarded themselves as vindicated, feeling that the laugh was on their side, while others who had favored his expulsion from Greece appeared embarrassed by the outcome.

MEETINGS URGE 'L' BUS SERVICE ON FULLERTON

Residents of the northwest side held two meetings yesterday to demand action by the Illinois commerce commission on their request for Chicago Rapid Transit company feeder bus extensions from the elevated terminal at Logan square.

Although several bus routes in the northwest side have been asked for in the petition before the commerce commission, yesterday's meetings agreed that sponsors of the plan would go before the commission tomorrow and ask that an order be entered immediately for a ninety day trial of one route along Fullerton avenue from the Logan square elevated terminal to the city limits.

One meeting, in the Kelvin park fieldhouse auditorium, Wrightwood and Kostner avenues, took place under the chairmanship of Walter W. Gorski, president of the Central Northwest Business Men's association. The other was held by Ald. James J. Hurley [29th] at 4624 North Crawford avenue.

RICHBERG TALKS AND NEW DEAL ACTION PUZZLES

Inconsistency of Policies Noted in Capital.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—In three eloquent speeches by Donald Richberg, the President's new right hand recovery man, the administration has advanced still further along the course of reconciling business and industry.

No inflation, the guarantee of profitable business, the abandonment of the present degree of regimentation under NRA, and the curbing of the excesses of union labor were among the promises Mr. Richberg held out to private enterprise.

At the same time the President pushed forward his plans for publicly owned hydro-electric plants, the completion of which would mean the extinction of the privately owned utilities.

See Two Strings to Bow.

There is much puzzling in official Washington over the apparent inconsistency of these policies. Some think that the President is endeavoring to pacify the conservative opponents of the New Deal with his professed of the olive branch to business while calculating to hold the radicals in line with his drive for public ownership.

With his declaration of war on the private utilities the President struck a mighty blow at the value of the utility investments of millions of people. Under the staggering impact the values of utility stocks reeled on the stock exchanges. About the same time the new federal communications commission embarked upon a fishing expedition with an investigation of the affairs of the great American Telephone and Telegraph company. A. T. & T. stock promptly fell some ten points, a fraction of which it has since recovered. A. T. & T. immediately opened a publicity office in Washington. Coincidentally the Washington subsidiary of A. T. & T. offered to compromise a 10 per cent rate cut it has been fighting in the courts.

Altogether there is brewing a conflict between the Roosevelt administration and the utilities reminiscent of that between the United States bank and Andrew Jackson, in whose footsteps Mr. Roosevelt likes to fancy himself following. As the lines of battle are being drawn there has occurred an event that may profoundly influence the struggle. Samuel Insull, personification of the business forces and business ethics to which the President ascribes the stock market crash and ensuing depression, has been acquitted. The acquittal is a negation in large part of the Roosevelt case against big business. If it is significant, it is so.

BRITISH AVIATRIX ON AUTOGYRO HOP FROM LONDON TO CAPE TOWN

LYMPNE, England, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Victor Bruce, British flyer, took off from the Lympe airfield today in the autogyro she hopes will take her to Cape Town.

cant of a more mature public assessment of the blame for the debacle of 1929 the President is not unlikely to find himself up against a public sentiment increasingly out of sympathy with his attack on the utilities.

The President inaugurated his public ownership campaign on his inspection of the far flung Tennessee Valley experiment in collectivism, announcing as his objective the multiplication of such hydro-electric power projects as yardsticks in all parts of the country for the measurement of fair charges for current by private companies.

May Have to Quit Business.

Thus Mr. Roosevelt proceeds upon the theory that private enterprise unless checked by government exploitation for the business of America should be laid in a political control of private enterprise.

In succeeding speeches in New York and Boston Mr. Richberg ranged himself squarely against those who would transmute our system into either a fascist or communistic form of government. "I do not believe," he said, "that the foundations of our new economic structure should be laid in a different form of government on the right."

The first test to be stretched toward the fireplace to dry the dew of the path will be those of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, administration floor leader. Both have been summoned for conferences tomorrow.

On the shoulders of Senator Harrison rests a heavy responsibility. In the event the huge Democratic majority in congress becomes unwieldy and takes the bit in its teeth to run away on a spending orgy, he will have to find new sources of taxation.

Concerned Over Bonus.

The administration is particularly concerned over the possibility of passage of the bonus. Should congress vote a 2 billion 200 million dollar bonus in the face of expressed presidential disfavor, it is believed certain that new tax burdens will be along on the shoulders of tax payers already groaning under money assessments.

The administration's aim in the financing, according to White House intimates, has been to attempt to hold regular expenses within the national income and pile the emergency expenditures for the various alphabetical units into the deficit column.

From this declared policy observers infer that President Roosevelt will not place the bonus into the emergency class.

Bankers' Head Coming.

Another visitor of the day will be Rudolph S. Hecht of New Orleans, president of the American Bankers' association, who is en route to his home after his recent election in Washington. He is expected to bring the assurance that bankers are cooperating fully and wholeheartedly with the government in expanding credit as an essential in administrative recovery program.

Late in the week Secretary of the ects is hauled at not to exceed two-thirds of the freight cost to private companies.

Points to Subsidy Aid.

"Given the same subsidies," said Mr. Wilkie, "we can immediately put into effect rates below the rates charged by the TVA."

This presidential move to the left shared attention with Mr. Richberg's differentiation of government on the right. In his Atlanta speech Mr. Richberg dwelt on the aspects of the NRA that tend to make business "profitable and secure." The fear of inflation, shared by business and labor alike, he sought to allay in these words:

"There is no patent medicine that will cure our economic ills. But of all quick remedies the worst that is offered to this nation in the sober gray dawn of recovery from the intoxicated follies of 1929 is to get drunk again in another orgy of inflation."

Richberg Speech Quoted.

In succeeding speeches in New York and Boston Mr. Richberg ranged himself squarely against those who would transmute our system into either a fascist or communistic form of government. "I do not believe," he said, "that the foundations of our new economic structure should be laid in a different form of government on the right."

SENATE CHIEFS AND ROOSEVELT TO CONFER TODAY

Robinson and Harrison Are Summoned.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—The winding path to the Little White House will echo the marching feet of high New Deal officials and brain trusters to Georgia pines this week as President Roosevelt plunges into budgetary and legislative problems.

The first test to be stretched toward the fireplace to dry the dew of the path will be those of Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, administration floor leader. Both have been summoned for conferences tomorrow.

He is expected to bring the assurance that bankers are cooperating fully and wholeheartedly with the government in expanding credit as an essential in administrative recovery program.

Late in the week Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau will come to Warm Springs for another conference on the budget.

Two other cabinet members are on the week's schedule. Postmaster General James A. Farley will report on the success of open handed distribution of federal jobs. Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper will report on his wrestling with falling exports and the shyness of business men to the New Deal.

Moffett Also Coming.

Frank Walker, former director of the national emergency council and an unofficial administration advisor, and James A. Moffett, federal housing administrator, also will be callers.

Throughout the week Rexford Guy Tugwell, under secretary of agriculture and No. 1 brain trust, is expected to wander in and out the conference.

In preparation for his heavy week President Roosevelt relaxed today. He took his customary plunge in the Warm Springs foundation pool. In the afternoon he plunked with his family. Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford, who arrived yesterday, were included in the family group.

TVA'S LEGALITY IS ATTACKED BY UTILITIES' HEAD

U. S. Supreme Court Test Is Forecast.

New York, Nov. 25.—[Special.]—The Edison Electric Institute, an association which takes in 80 per cent of the electric power interests of the nation, declared war today on President Roosevelt's power program, as set forth in the Tennessee Valley authority and similar projects, and threatened an appeal to the courts.

A resolution setting forth the institute's strong opposition to the President's policies was made public by Thomas N. McCarter, institute president and head of the Public Service corporation of New Jersey.

"Palpably Unconstitutional," Mr. McCarter said, that from New York D. Baker, former secretary of war, and James M. Beck, former solicitor general, he had obtained a joint legal opinion declaring the TVA legislation to be "palpably unconstitutional."

The institute's action marks the first organized opposition to the President's power program, the core of which is the construction of vast power plants whose product would be sold at cheap rates to consumers over wide areas. Individual spokesmen, among them the power interests have attacked the President before, but the institute has remained quiet.

The McCarter broadside comes on the heels of the President's statement that in every state in the union communities will follow the example of Tupelo, Miss., the first city to contract for all of its power from TVA.

See Attack on Competition.

In one of the resolutions adopted by the institute's board of trustees, the administration was accused of "entirely of using public funds to destroy by competitive construction and operation the existing investments of private capital in public utility enterprises."

The institute officers were empowered to take "any necessary steps" to bring about "a prompt adjudication and settlement of the matters in controversy." Mr. McCarter said he hoped soon to have an opportunity to lay the whole issue before the President.

The meeting of the board of trustees at which the resolutions were adopted was held three days after the White House made public the results of a survey conducted by the power authority of New York state. These investigators held that the cost of distributing power in the state was about 10 per cent higher than the present average.

Text of Resolution.

The text of the institute's resolution follows:

"Resolved, that the Edison Electric Institute is of the opinion that the public interest requires an early adjudication by the courts, as to the merits of pending questions which involve the determination whether there are limits under the constitution beyond which government may not go in using public funds to destroy by competitive construction and operation the existing investments of private capital in public utility enterprises, and it is further

"Resolved, that the President, or the executive committee of the institute are hereby authorized and empowered to take any necessary steps of cooperation in behalf of the early declaration and determination of the powers of government and the rights of investors as to competitive projects initiated by government, and are authorized to employ and consult such counsel, engineers, and economists, and to take such further steps as in their judgment may be necessary or proper to bring about a prompt adjudication and settlement of the matter in controversy."

ACTRESS ELOPES WITH DIRECTOR

Margaret Sullivan, screen star, who eloped yesterday with William Wyler, her director, to be married in Yuma, Ariz.

Early Morning Flight

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—(P)—Margaret Sullivan, motion picture actress, and her director, William Wyler, eloped by airplane to Yuma, Ariz., today and were married, returning immediately to Hollywood.

Justice A. E. Freeman, "marrying judge" of Yuma, performed the ceremony.

After a hasty wedding luncheon at Yuma, the pair took off in their chartered airplane for Hollywood, reaching there in mid afternoon.

Officials at the studio where both are employed said that Wyler kept his company at work all night on Miss Sullivan's picture, "The Good Fairy," and that the two left for Yuma early in the morning.

Miss Sullivan and Henry Fonda, an actor, were divorced several years ago. Since then her name has been linked romantically with those of John McCormick, former husband of Colleen Moore, actress, and Ted Harris, the New York stage producer.

Wyler is a cousin of Carl Laemmle Sr., motion picture producer.

G.B. SHAW BETTER; FULL RECOVERY EXPECTED SOON

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(P)—Full recovery to complete health was expected tonight after a few days rest for George Bernard Shaw, the Irish playwright, who has been slightly indisposed as a result of a strenuous schedule of activities.

He was confined to his London apartments during the week-end instead of taking his usual rest in the country.

At the age of 78 Shaw has been lecturing and writing as voluminously as ever. He recently finished a new play and began work on another. He plans to visit South America this winter to escape as usual from the cold weather.

JURY ACTS TODAY ON BALATA'S HUGE SWINDLE SCHEME

Indictments to Be Urged by State's Attorney.

Grand jury action is scheduled for today on a swindling scheme to buy control of an insurance company and an Indianapolis bank with stolen funds. The scheme was blocked last Monday night by the confession of Otto van Derck, 23 year old clerk in the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, 111 West Jackson boulevard, who revealed that the swindlers had obtained $54,000 by check fraud.

Indictments are to be asked, according to Assistant State's Attorney Vernon Thompson, for the $54,000 check fraud, but all those to be named had not yet been determined yesterday.

List of Those Involved.

Those involved in the state's inquiry, besides Van Derck, included: Edward J. Balata, ex-consort, who served two sentences for bank looting, owner of a tavern at 117 West Madison street and former associate of President Thompson. He is under arrest.

GUSTAV LINDQUIST, former insurance commissioner, who said he had been installed as president of the Abraham Lincoln Life Insurance Company of Springfield, Ill., by Balata, who bought control of the insurance company with $25,000 of the $54,000 obtained by check fraud. Lindquist is being sought by police. The scheme was discovered in time to save the insurance company from any damage.

DAVE (LONG COUNTRY) HARRY, referee of the second Dempsey-Tunney championship fight, in whose name Balata operated the tavern and drew checks against the "Dave Harry, Inc." account to the extent of $54,000. He is at liberty on bail.

HAYDEN SANDERS, once assistant cashier of the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank, who was made treasurer of the insurance company by Balata, after which he took $25,000 of the insurance company's bonds to Indianapolis for a down payment on the deal to secure control of the bank, the name of which is withheld. He is held.

W. W. KILMER, set up in a brokerage office by Balata and given a check issued by the insurance company for $25,000, which was unable to cash because he couldn't properly identify himself. He was arrested last week.

ALBANY SCOFFS AT CHARGE

Greeks Are Mistreated

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 25.—(P)—The government issued a statement today declaring that charges brought by Greece at Geneva that the Greek minority was being discriminated against in Albania were without foundation. The government charged in turn that the Albanian minority in Greece does not enjoy the rights guaranteed by the minority convention. The statement accused the Greeks of attempting to stir up world opinion against Albania.

Free Beers Pave Way.

By giving Van Derck many free beers, Balata induced him to pass an overdraft at the bank on the Dave Harry, Inc. account. The overdraft was explained. Then, with the bank clerk compromised, the Balata crowd forced Van Derck to allow other overdrafts to pass unchallenged, and in this way the money was obtained for a down payment of $25,000 for control of the insurance company, into which Balata expected to dump a lot of stolen securities. Balata was in control of the insurance company but a short time when Van Derck, who expected to be married this week, went to Lieut. Welles with his story.

Yesterday there was a disposition on the part of the authorities to exempt Van Derck from indictment, in view of his services to the state, but it seemed probable, however, that he would be named in the indictment in order to insure his testimony against the main plotters.

Lindquist's Lawyer in Dark.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 25.—(P)—Frank McAllister, St. Paul attorney for Gustav Lindquist, sought for further questioning by Illinois authorities in connection with the Balata fraud case, said tonight he had received no word from his client.

U. S. MILITARY ATTACHE'S HOME STONED IN CUBA

Machado Party Revival Stirs Terrorism.

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 25.—(P)—The sudden revival of former President Gerardo Machado's old Liberal party has aroused the ire of militant Cuban revolutionaries, and several bombings in the last few days have been aimed at the homes of known Liberals.

The procedure was varied slightly today with the hurling of stones and bottles at the residence of Lieut. Col. Thomas N. Gimperling, United States military attaché at Havana. In the bottles were a red flag and slogans protesting against the high cost of living.

New leaders of the once scattered Liberal forces are indignant because of the revival of terrorism, and have protested strongly to Col. Fulgencio Batista, head of the Cuban army. They pointed out that none of the present leaders of the group was closely identified with the Machado regime and that being a Liberal does not necessarily mean being a "Machadista."

Newspaperman Heads Move.

"Down with the Machadistas!" long has been the battle cry of the revolutionaries.

Ramon Vasconcelos, a newspaperman, is one of the prime movers in the Liberal organization. The party took shape after the downfall of the Machado government in August, 1933. Most of the reorganization work is being carried on in the small towns and villages. Observers who are neutral believe the Liberals will control most of the next municipal elections on the island.

If tentative plans for a merger of the Liberals and one or two of the revolutionary parties are carried out, the observers believe the merged party would dominate the constitutional assembly elections next March and control the selection of a constitutional president later.

Seek to Change Name.

It was reliably learned the Liberals are mindful of the blight on the name "Liberal" and are seeking to change it by marriage with a revolutionary group.

Along this line it was understood negotiations have been going on with leaders of the Liberals and the OGRE (Reorganization Cellular Radical Revolutionary).

It has been pointed out that the re-birth of the Liberal party does not mean the return to power either of Machado or his associates. The plan of the new Liberal group, it is said, is to choose leaders from the ranks of the outstanding revolutionaries.

We made it... Chicago ate it... and loved it! Those 2 1/4 tons are what we baked last year in our own kitchens—this year, the way people are clamoring, 3 tons don't look enough. What makes it good? Maybe it's the choice California glaze fruits. Maybe it's the old vintage sherry and brandy. Maybe it's the nuts. More probably it's the combination, for the recipe has been carefully treasured since 1856... and calls for only 3 pounds of flour to a "mix" of 32 pounds! Is it "black"? Is it rich? You guess!

BRIDE WEEPS, BUT SHERLOCK GROWS BEARD; GETS MAN

Two Play Boy Detectives Clear Up 80 Robberies.

(Picture on back page, 28.) The "boys" at Clark and Oak streets are wondering where "John" and "Jack," the two good spenders, have gone, and Detective Tim Donovan's bride of a month is convinced that police work at its best is a sorry business.

It all came to pass when Donovan and his partner, Thomas Brown, became detectives in the best Sherlock Holmes tradition—disguises and everything. And it ended yesterday morning when the two policemen collared their man, implicated by his partner in more than eighty robberies.

On Nov. 6 Charles MacArthur, 35, was arrested as he robbed a Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company store at 215 West Street. Questioning at the detective bureau revealed him in dozens of robberies, and a grand jury indicted him, setting bail at $100,000.

The Plot Gets More Thick. Donovan and Brown were assigned to the case to catch MacArthur's accomplice. The robber identified him only as "Vic," but described him minutely, and agreed to give Donovan a note identifying the policeman as a friend of MacArthur's. Knowing that "Vic" frequented the Clark and Oak neighborhood, the policemen set after him.

Brown decided that with his youthful face, he would best appear as a college boy, so he donned a light trench coat, "Harold Teen" hat, an expensive smile, a roll of bills, and was ready. He "John" Brown, just out of college, with enough money to carry him for two weeks until he started work as an accountant.

Donovan went Brown a step better of the matter by dressing as he looked the false teeth, put on a dirty, suede jacket and cap, went without shaving for two days, and sallied forth with a similar roll of bills, with the alias "Jack Delaney."

Bride Finds Things Sad. The two drifted into the Newberry cafe, at Clark and Oak streets. Both bought drinks liberally. Brown striking up an acquaintance with one "Bob," a denizen of the district. Donovan informed the bartender he was just out of the country jail and was seeking "Vic" with a message from MacArthur.

The days passed and the good spenders went about their business. Donovan's bride couldn't see why her husband didn't come home nights, and when he did appear had a dirty stubble of a beard and whisky breath.

Saturday night fortune smiled on the detectives. Donovan learned that "Vic" had received his message and would meet him, Brown, as invited for spaghetti to "Bob's" flat on the fifth floor at 104 West Oak street. And who should be there, serving the long strings but "Vic!"

The Climax Clumps In. The time had come for their coup. The detectives decided. Early yesterday morning they raided "Bob's" flat. No one was there, but after a short wait their man entered. He identified himself as Victor Zamorano, 35 years old, and admitted accompanying MacArthur in most of the robberies.

But the "boys" at Clark and Oak won't be quite the same, and Detective Donovan's wife is still wondering what this police work is. A funny business, she thinks.

BURGARS GET $500 PROPERTY. Burglars robbed the home of Edward Johnson, 1421 Pennell avenue, on Saturday night of an $500 silver set, an accordion, an electric clock, and a radio set, all valued at $500. Johnson reported yesterday to Kensington police.

English Letters to Flower Next in U. S.: Gertrude Stein

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

To an enthusiastic audience that filled the Arts Club of Chicago, Gertrude Stein gave her first Chicago address last evening before what was practically a gathering of that exclusive and intellectual club, as only members were admitted, and the walls were stretched to capacity.

Miss Stein read a lecture on "What Is English Literature," and the fields of her fertile mind offered a harvest, which [even in the language which many call "Steinlish," so almost foreign does it seem to English] her audience found thrilling. Perhaps most of Miss Stein's meticulous accuracy on a word, a "language" to mean ideas, for Miss Stein's actual words are exactly and pellucidly the words of the English language. It is her ideas which are "Steinlish" not her language.

But to begin to begin to start, as Miss Stein might say, about the lecture, which is so much more interesting than the reading of her public to it, although that, too, and in another sense, was fascinating.

Nobody, that is, almost nobody expected to understand. Nevertheless, some of the fine everybody understood, but there were always a few who understood all of the time. Always, however, everybody liked her talk. If only for the beauty of the words that came from Miss Stein's clear, forthright voice, and for the beauty of a face, strong and fine, and compelling. Her countenance suggests the best of the modern art, a subject which interests her deeply.

The Beginnings of England. English literature, she said, was what it was because of the island life which the English have always lived. In the beginning, when the island was an island only, she declared, that is, before it became an island with a life outside itself, in its possessions as well as a life inside itself, words were used as words and for the joy of them.

Then, as England, the island, became more self-conscious, there grew up a questioning of life and of the use of words, and a questioning arose in literature, but it was still islandlike, and in its daily life self-contained, interested only in itself.

Then, as England became the center of an empire, with a great life outside as well as within itself, it ceased to be concerned with only its own daily life and began to explain itself to the outer world. First, words in themselves, sufficed. Then the eighteenth century, self-contained, expressed itself in the sentence.

The Migration of Power. The nineteenth century, the century of explanation, expressed itself in phrases, because a phrase is not self-contained, but an explanation, she said. The twentieth century in English literature is not expressive of the daily life of England, Miss Stein declared [in her own fashion, not mine] and has therefore lost its power.

It is to American literature that readers must turn for the next important development in the growth of English literature, she asserted. She predicted that the development would be an emanation from words rather than an actual statement by them of life. Citing the later work of Henry James as an example, with his own experience, she predicted that the audience that American literature had a "non connecting with the daily anything" and, to their prolonged and vociferous applause, replied smilingly, "Is that what you wanted?"

Miss Stein will be in Chicago for a week, lecturing before members of clubs which have sought her [for she will not lecture before any audience which pays to hear her] and to the students of the University of Chicago.

PRINCESS MARINA AND GEORGE LOOK AT FUTURE HOME

Minute Schedule Drawn for Wedding Day.

LONDON, Nov. 25. (AP)—Princess Marina, whose wedding is only four days away, had a thrill this afternoon when, with her princely fiancé, she visited the spacious house in Belgrave square where the couple will occupy after their marriage.

The duke of Kent, better known as Prince George, fourth son of the king, and Marina spent 20 minutes inspecting their future domicile. It was only one incident in a busy day which began with a journey to the private chapel in Buckingham palace for services during the forenoon, accompanied by the king and queen and other royal personages. After church the couple took a short drive in a black sports car with the duke at the wheel, returning to the palace for luncheon.

The bery of royal guests already here for the wedding was augmented by the arrival of Prince George of Greece and the Princess with two children: the Prince and Princess Christopher and Princess Marie of Greece, and the Prince and Princess Rene of Bourbon.

Wedding Day Scheduled. Princess Marina will have to arise on the day of her wedding, as early as if she were an English shopgirl going to work. A program accounting for every minute of next Thursday, from the moment the princess is aroused at 7:30 a. m. until she leaves at 4 p. m. with her husband for Italy, has been worked out to the most minute detail.

This has been done by the office of the lord chamberlain, who, as the person responsible for the arrangement of royal functions in England, assumes temporarily almost dictatorial powers over royal personages.

Marina's movements—and in fact those of all the royal family and guests—have been worked out in clock-like precision so there will be no delay in arriving at Westminster abbey at 11 a. m. for the start of the sumptuous services.

Earl of Cromer in Charge. The day's schedule, occupying several pages, closely typed, was given the personal supervision of the earl of Cromer, lord chamberlain. Cromer faces a hard year. After the wedding is out of the way he has to start making arrangements for the king's silver jubilee year.

The first of the dinner parties connected with the wedding will be held tomorrow night at Buckingham palace after the arrival of the king and queen of Denmark. It will be strictly a family affair, with no members of the court or the diplomatic corps attending.

Londoners had more opportunity today to read about the wedding than at any time previously. All the Sunday newspapers printed their special

NRA READY TO URGE A 40 HOUR WEEK FOR ALL LABOR DIVISIONS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25. (AP)—Recommendations for a uniform 40 hour work week—10 hours more than organized labor demands—were being drafted today by NRA supervisors of some 400 basic and supplemental manufacturing codes.

This anti-thirty hour week amendment first will go to the recovery board for consideration. But if approved sources named its eventual destination as the White House, where it will be available to President Roosevelt for dealing with congressional moves.

Not alone were the manufacturing industries being canvassed, but every Blue Eagle code was being dissected, at the recovery board's orders, for a comprehensive summary of labor's wages and hours.

The apparent view of all concerned was that the blanket 30 hour week wanted by the American Federation of Labor was impossible of achievement without pushing prices so high consumption would be crippled.

pages or special sections, some with composite sketches showing those who cannot attend and how the wedding scene at the abbey probably will look.

Profit for Hatters. Meanwhile Princess Marina's arrival in London has given gown and hat designers, shopkeepers and beauty parlor operators, their busiest days in years. Marina's hat sailor hats and especially a small, close-fitting toque which she wore from Paris, have been much copied. One shopkeeper filled his whole window with 75 cent copies. They sold like hot cakes.

Officials of St. George's hospital, of which the duke of Kent is president, reported today that $28,000 ($140,000) already has rolled into the coffers as a result of the royal couple's sponsoring the hospital's rebuilding campaign fund. They directed that public wedding gifts be sent in cash and donated to the hospital.

TORTURE WOMAN WITH FIRE; ROB HER OF SAVINGS

Two young handits entered the home of Mrs. Katherine Nyquist, 30 years old, at 4006 West Congress street early today and forced her to reveal the hiding place of her $35 savings by burning her finger tips with matches.

Mrs. Nyquist, whose husband, a mail carrier, is ill in a hospital, was aroused by some one ringing her doorbell. She went to the front door and asked who was there.

"A telegram," replied a boy's voice. The woman opened the door a crack to take the message and two young men forced their way inside. When she insisted she had only the $2 they found in her purse they burned her finger tips with matches.

Serg. Fred Wright and his squad from the Fillmore station took Mrs. Nyquist to the county hospital to have her burns bandaged and began a search for the men.

CLAIM MONSTER IS LIKE SEA COW OF 150 YEARS AGO

Study Strange Quills of Carcass on Henry Island.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 25. (AP)—A theory that the strange serpent-like marine monster of Henry Island might be a survivor of the species of northern sea cows, rhynchostyli, believed extinct more than 150 years, was advanced today by British Columbia museum authorities.

In the Royal Natural History, published by Richard Lydecker in 1894, they found records of a supposedly now extinct animal by a naturalist named Stellar, who accompanied the great navigator, Vitus Bering, in his explorations of the Alaskan coast.

Lydecker's description of the mammal showed it was similar to the strange thirty-five foot monster found lying on the shores of Henry Island, south of Prince Rupert, they reported. In at least six ways, including its long serpent-like shape, its bristles and skin, it corresponded to the Henry Island creature.

At Prince Rupert, Dr. Neal Carter, director of the Dominion experimental station there, continued his work on preserving and dissecting it.

Examine Hooked Quills. Dr. Francis Kermode, museum director here, examined half a dozen hooked quills and several portions of the hide, which had been taken from the creature's carcass and forwarded here, and said he had never seen anything like it before.

"It certainly was not a whale," he said. The popular belief is the creature is one of the three "sea serpents" which have been sighted by several hundred reputable British Columbia citizens in the last several months.

BOY FATALLY BURNED. Gilroy, Cal., Nov. 25. (AP)—Robert Hall, who celebrated his fifth birthday by dancing around a fire in his Indian headdress, was found today fatally burned when the flames ignited his new gift.

MOVE TO SETTLE RIOTOUS STRIKE IN LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 25. (AP)—Movers to arbitrate the Los Angeles railway strike were made tonight after a day of violence climaxed by a spectacular three car collision which injured more than 20 passengers and five motormen and conductors.

Mayor Frank I. Shaw announced that representatives of the railway had said H. A. Featherstone, president of the local union involved, would meet with him at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to consider selection of an arbitration board in the dispute.

The collision occurred at Vermont and Florence avenues in the southern part of the city. A southbound car smashed into the rear of another which was stalled by a third car halted by strike sympathizers.

Thirteen of the passengers were treated at George Reevling hospital, and approximately ten others taken to the hospital in ambulances were permitted to go home after emergency care.

Six men jumped on a car at Avenue 48 and Monte Vista street and beat Motorman L. M. Moore and Conductor B. H. Fitzpatrick. Other men hurled bricks at the car windows.

CATHOLIC WOMEN PLAN TO BOYCOTT MEXICO SCHOOLS

Mothers Refuse to Send Children to Classes.

By air mail to the New York Times and Chicago Tribune.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21.—A nameless secret organization is being formed by Catholic mothers here to combat the introduction of socialistic education into the schools of the country. Its director and leading spirit, a wealthy woman of a distinguished family of Spanish descent, herself the mother of grown children, outlined its aims and methods today.

The public schools in this area are scheduled to open on Jan. 6. Whether socialistic education, as made mandatory by a recent amendment to the federal constitution, will be sufficiently defined by enabling legislation for it to go into effect at this time is still in doubt. But these mothers are taking no chances; they expect to have their campaign fully organized by that time.

2,500 Mothers Enrolled.

The organization has a membership of 2,500, according to its president. These members have subscribed a sum of money and have pledged themselves to visit all mothers in the federal district, urging them not to send their children to school. The money raised will be used to pay fines they expect will be assessed against at least some of the mothers who keep their children away.

Realizing that poor mothers cannot have their children at home all day long and that their time at school enables the mother to work at a trade, each member will take a number of children to her own home for the day. The president has volunteered to care for 25 each day at her large house.

She plans to have a nurse to look after them. When asked whether she intended to have any instruction given to them, which would be against the law, she declined to commit herself.

Drop Original Plan.

This same organization originally planned to ask all school teachers to stay away from their posts and tried to raise funds to pay the teachers' salaries. When church officials heard of the plan, however, they advised that it be dropped, pointing out that the teachers would probably be excluded permanently from government employment.

Under present plans, therefore, the teachers are expected to report to empty, or almost empty, classrooms.

This plan in the capital is only a symptom of the resistance Roman Catholics throughout the country are hoping to show in the face of the government's apparent determination to go through with the new school program.

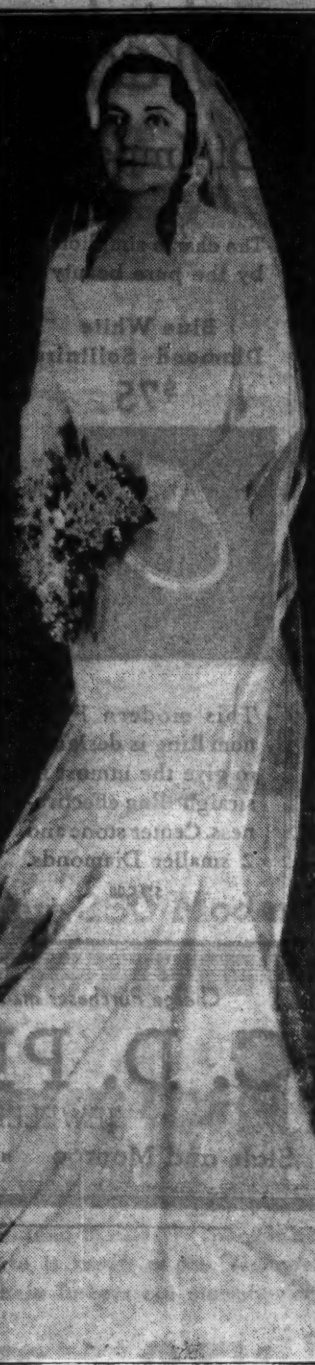

Report of Mexican Closing Order Puzzles Mormons

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Officials of the Mormon church here were at a loss today to explain a reported order of Gov. Rodrigo Quevedo of Chihuahua, Mexico, closing Mormon meeting houses in that state. Sylvester Q. Cannon, presiding bishop of the church, said the church has observed the Mexican laws, particularly that forbidding aliens to conduct religious services.

WEDS CURTIS BOK

MRS. CURTIS BOK.
(Aime Photo.)

Falls City, Neb., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Miss Nellie Lee Holt, college professor, and Curtis Bok, attorney and member of the wealthy Philadelphia family, were married here today at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Holt.

The ceremony, marked by simplicity, was held before a fireplace banked with flowers. About 60 relatives and friends attended.

The marriage lines were read by Dr. Paul W. Paustian of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., where the bride was head of the department of religious education when she met the son of Edward K. Bok last January.

ABANDON HOPE FOR BROTHERS; BOAT DRIFTS IN

All hope for the lives of two brothers who ventured out upon the lake in a home made canoe early Saturday was abandoned yesterday when their battered craft was washed ashore.

The brothers, Ludwig Stifter, 32 years old, and Frederick, 16, of 1709 Dayton street, set out with their 12 foot craft from the shore at North avenue. Coast guardsmen under Capt. John O. Anderson started search late Saturday when they did not return.

Yesterday the boat, constructed of barrel staves and canvas, was found on the shore at 8253 Sheridan road. Capt. Anderson said in all probability the two men were thrown out when the canoe was capsized by choppy waves.

CITY'S MILLIONS WILL JOIN IN DAY OF THANKSGIVING

Great Feasts Planned for Dependent Throgs.

It was a cold, bleak Thursday 313 years ago this week that the Pilgrim fathers, wrapping their coats about them, trudged to their little church on the hill to celebrate a bountiful harvest on the first Thanksgiving day.

It was on an equally cold day, but some 220 years later, that the people of Chicago, then a sprawling prairie town alongside the "River of the Wild Onion" set aside the last Thursday of November, 1841, for Chicago's first Thanksgiving day and gathered in their seven small churches to give thanks.

Chicago now has more than 1,800 churches and more than three and a half million people to join in its general Thanksgiving observance, but only one city-wide interdenominational service will be held Thursday. That is the annual early morning Thanksgiving service of Cheltenham Methodist, which will be held in the Chicago temple at 8 a. m.

U. S. and State Proclamations.

In addition to the traditional churchgoing and feasting, Chicagoans, spurred on by President Roosevelt's proclamation dedicating the day to "the betterment of mankind" and Gov. Horner's plea to "remember our fellow citizens in distress," will busy themselves this year in feasting the poor.

For the past nine years one of the outstanding Thanksgiving dinner providers of Chicago has been Harry Block, proprietor of Block's restaurant at 120 Cermak road, and again this year he will observe the day by serving a free Thanksgiving dinner, replete with all the trimmings, to some 2,000 needy persons.

Two thousand pounds of turkey, 500 pumpkin pies, a barrel of cranberries, five crates of sweet potatoes, 100 layer cakes, and great quantities of milk and ice cream are only a part of the commodities which he is setting aside for the occasion.

Tickets for Mr. Block's feast are issued in blocks to the pastors of various churches and to welfare workers for distribution. In addition to these, regular patrons of the restaurant are privileged to send in any hungry family of their acquaintance with the assurance that they will be well cared for.

County Wards to Feast.

Special emphasis is being placed this year upon providing Thanksgiving dinners and cheer for the 20,000 inmates of Cook county's institutions, and officials have promised that no institution will be overlooked.

Mammoth turkeys, their legs crossed in the traditional manner, already fill the institutional refrigerators, golden pumpkins are to be heaped on laden doors, red cranberries will shimmer in their own juice, and autumnal decorations are brightening dark walls as preparations are made.

Music, merry making and munching with "open house" for visitors throughout the afternoon, will mark the day's program for the majority of the homes, asylums, and hospitals. The only public institution to which visitors will not be admitted during the day is the county jail.

Youth of City Closing Drives.

In the meantime, during the last few days preceding Thanksgiving, the young people of the city are working feverishly to bring to a conclusion their annual Thanksgiving food and clothing drives. Members of Gamma Kappa Delta, Episcopal youth organization, will bring the last of their "good cheer" collections to Episcopal headquarters, 65 East Huron street.

tonight, for distribution on Thanksgiving eve.

School children in many city schools will combine efforts Wednesday in winding up the 40th annual drive of the School Children's Aid society, concluded annually at Thanksgiving, which raises shoes, clothing, and food for needy school children.

Russian-American Festival.

One of the most colorful of the many Thanksgiving feasts planned for the week will be the Thanksgiving eve party of the Russian-American club, Zaria, at the Hotel Sherman Wednesday night, when the folk songs and dances used in the ancient Russian harvest festival will be revived by several thousand Russian-Americans.

Other Thanksgiving observances already announced are a Thanksgiving frolic in the Church hall, 37th and Aberdeen streets, Wednesday night, by the Kilian Woman's club; the annual Thanksgiving dance of the St. Xavier College Glee club Wednesday night at the Hotel Sherman and a dinner for employees of the Morrison hotel Thursday in the Terrace Garden by Leonard Hicks, hotel manager.

The fellowship of the first Thanksgiving dinner was refueled in a semi-comic manner at the Marshall Field Garden apartments, 411 Blackhawk street, yesterday when some 150 "wild Indians" were guests of some 75 "whites" at a Thanksgiving feast.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SERBIA'S ATTACK ON HUNGARY IS PEACE PERIL DUCE

Demands League Take Up
Case at Once.

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Through Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, Italy issued warning today that Jugo-Slavia's accusations against Hungary, now before the league of nations, threaten to destroy all possibilities of calming Europe's clashing passions.

An article understood to have been inspired by Il Duce himself demanded immediate discussion of Jugo-Slavia's charge that Hungarian authorities conspired with the terrorists responsible for assassination of King Alexander.

Takes Another Slant.

Striking out at the Jugo-Slavs on another slant, the paper referred to a report that 1,950 Austrian Nazis involved in the July uprising, who escaped to Jugo-Slavia, will be allowed to depart Wednesday on a German steamboat, and commented:

"After dwelling for a long time in Jugo-Slavia as guests, the refugees are not now extradited back to Austria, but are sent with full courtesies to Germany."

Alexander's assassination, according to the writer, was the result of internal Jugo-Slavian differences.

"It didn't come from a clear sky nor happen in a serene atmosphere, but was connected with previous killings, repulsions, plots and acts of vengeance about which the whole world knows," the article said.

Plea for Extradition Denied.

ROME, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The Court of Appeals at Turin, according to reliable information today from legal circles in Rome, has denied the application of Trieste for the extradition of Ante Pavelich, alleged leader of a gang which planned the assassination of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia.

The court similarly is reported to have denied the application for extradition of Dr. Egon Kvaternik, a lieutenant of Pavelich.

During the last few days the Court of Appeals has quietly heard evidence in the case. The case now will be sent to the minister of justice at Rome, Pietro de Francis, for final decision. In well informed quarters it was said the decision of the minister of justice will be the same as that of the court.

PRINCE DENIES HIS SON WILL MARRY SPANISH INFANTA

NAPLES, Italy, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Prince Stefano Colonna, father of Prince Guido Colonna, today denied reports his son was engaged to the Spanish Infanta Maria Cristina. He pointed out that Guido has been in New York for the last few years as Italian vice consul.

Ex-King's Aid Surprised.

ROME, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The secretary of former King Alfonso of Spain, who surprised tonight over reports of the engagement of the Spanish Infanta Maria Cristina. He said he had heard nothing to confirm it.

Engagement Is Denied.

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—At the royal Italian consulate general, to which Prince Guido Colonna is attached, it was said today he was not engaged to the Spanish Infanta Maria Cristina. "There are several branches of the Colonna family in Italy and several Princes Guido Colonna," said the spokesman. "Perhaps it is some other Prince Guido."

Hunt Two Companions in Ex-Convict's Slaying

Search for a man and woman, associates of Irving J. Nee, 28 years old, ex-convict, and auto thief suspect, was being made by police yesterday as they prepared for an inquest today into the slaying of Nee Saturday night. Nee was slain in a garage at 2221 Washington boulevard by detectives who went there to question him. His widow, Virginia, 22 years old, was held at the detective bureau. She identified her husband's friends as a couple who accompanied them on a motor trip through Ohio, when a car found in the garage was "acquired."

Their plane lost a wing while 1,000 feet in the air and crashed into dense woods. Mrs. Melcher, who was in her husband's automobile, three quarters of a mile distant, saw the plane fall.

HITLER LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN TO AID GERMANS ABROAD

Berlin Accuses Lithuania of Tortures.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—A campaign to aid German minorities living in foreign countries was launched by the propaganda ministry today. News papers played up the clash at Prague yesterday between Czech and German students, and asserted that police reserves were called to subdue the rioters. This is denied by the Czechs.

The main charges are directed against Lithuania, which is accused of torturing German citizens to death in Mamel prisons. The news paper Montag published a letter, which it claims was smuggled out of a jail. In the letter one prisoner asserts that two men died from inhuman treatment and that others were cross-examined in underground dungeons with their fingers in thumb screws.

Charges Prisoners Were Beaten.

"Whoever failed to make the desired confession was beaten with a knout until he was black and blue," the letter said.

It is alleged that 139 Germans have been held in Lithuanian prisons to await trial since the first of the year for fighting for the rights guaranteed citizens of the Mamel district by the league of nations.

The indignation of the German public is rising steadily against "the oppressors of German minorities."

Observers look on this new campaign as designed to distract the Germans' attention from the Protestant church

3 FOREIGN CHIEFS ON WAY TO PARIS TO DRAW EAST EUROPEAN PACT

GENEVA, Nov. 25.—(AP)—The foreign ministers of Russia, Rumania and Turkey were proceeding to Paris today to continue negotiations on an Eastern European pact.

In Paris they will confer with Foreign Minister Pierre Laval. The three who left Geneva included Maxim Litvinov of Russia, Nicholas Titulescu of Rumania, and Tewfik Rushdi Bey of Turkey.

Litvinov, it was asserted, was annoyed at the recent revelations of Leon Archimbaum before the French chambers concerning a reported Franco-Russian alliance, and probably would seek to make a further attempt to dissipate existing uneasiness.

conflict and from the agitation in the Saar.

New Rioting at Prague.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 25.—Czech students and members of the Czech "Nationalist Front," which is a Fascist organization, continued demonstrations today before the German university, the German theater, and German clubs. Sunday promenaders joined in smashing windows.

Twenty-two German students were injured yesterday in a clash between Czech students and German students over possession of the historical insignia of the Prague university, which was founded in 1348.

Czech students today built a gallery of the German university's gate, which was demolished in yesterday's fighting. A sign reading "German dean" dangled from it.

Czech authorities permitted the "Nationalist Front," which is composed of opponents of the government, to demonstrate today, but plan drastic measures tomorrow in case the Fascists attempt to stir up new clashes.

A most popular spot at the World's Fair was Daggett & Ramsdell's Beauty Salon... and many were the regrets when the Exposition ended. Since then we have received so many inquiries asking where this same sort of individual expert beauty advice might be had that we are opening today a permanent institution in Chicago.

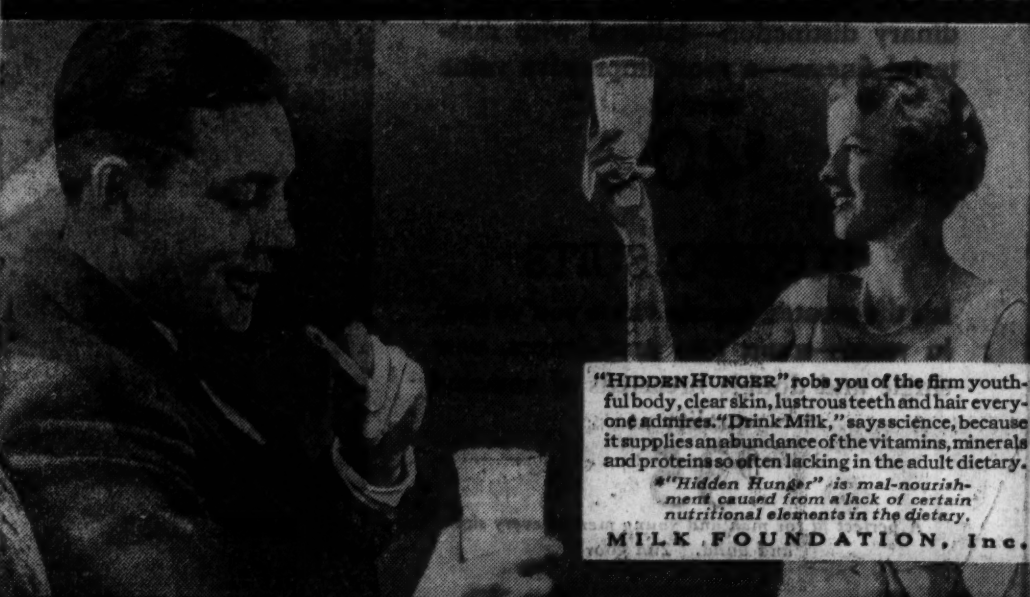

The purpose of our new Salon is to show by actual demonstration the proper use of the Daggett & Ramsdell beauty preparations according to the varying needs of individual women.

BEGIN FINAL LINK OF OGDEN AVENUE DRIVE THIS WEEK

Rush Completion of Goose Island Ramps.

Chicago this week will begin the final steps for completion of the Ogdén avenue development, a project which was started more than forty years ago and which, when completed, will have cost $5,500,000. The last link in the project will be the finishing of ramps linking Goose island, between forks of the Chicago river, with the Ogdén avenue viaduct, which now crosses the island at elevation.

The viaduct and extension of the avenue, linking Lincoln park and Union park by a fast arterial highway, was finished many months ago. Although approximately $200,000 of the $5,500,000 bond issue was available for the construction of ramps which were provided for in the original plan, nothing was done until this fall. Various reasons were assigned for the delay in the completion of the project.

Start Actively This Week.

In the meantime the North Branch Industrial association, representing 287 industrial and manufacturing firms on the island, began a campaign for the construction of ramps. Following a conference between M. F. Kent, executive secretary of the association, and Mayor Kelly, the city council in its last session authorized the construction. The board of local improvements this week will start making measurements for construction.

"This project will improve transportation facilities more than a hundred per cent," Mr. Kent said. "Its saving in dollars is incalculable, and in addition it, combined with the new federal housing program for that area, will once again bring Goose island back as an important business and social area in Chicago."

Big Boon to Business.

The ramp, located at Hickory street on the north side of the viaduct, will be sufficient to handle all traffic in and out of the island and will give industrial firms ready access to other manufacturing centers and to shipping facilities.

At the present time trucking may cross at Division and Halsted streets and at Elston avenue, but at both locations it is necessary to cross a maze of railroad tracks, then drive a mile out of the way to get to a main artery, according to the association officials. Although the Ogdén avenue extension was designed to open up the entire industrial area there is no provision for access to the avenue from the island.

A Historic Area.

Now largely an industrial area with only fifteen families resident, the island for decades was prominent in Chicago history. It was originally named Ogdén's island, then with the influx of Irish settlers it became known as Killeoban island, and later as Little Hell because of the nearby gas house with its smoke and flame. It became an island and remained Goose island when the Irish began to raise hundreds of geese on the river channels.

The southern end of the island, being grassy and ideal for living quarters, became thickly settled with squatters. When grain elevators and industrial firms began moving into the area the squatters were forced out. One squatter was killed when he persisted in staying.

NEW GARIBALDI PLAZA IS OPENED IN LINCOLN PARK

City officials and members of Italian organizations participated in ceremonies which rededicated the statue of Giuseppe Garibaldi, Italian national hero, in its new location in Lincoln park yesterday.

The statue which was placed in the park in September, 1901, by the Legion Giuseppe Garibaldi, was formerly located near Center and Clark streets. The new site of the monument is named Plaza Garibaldi and is located 300 feet south and west of Gen. Grant's monument. The cost of moving the stone and bronze memorial, approximately $2,500, was borne by the Italian society.

A parade of nearly 1,000 Italian citizens from North avenue and Dearborn street to the plaza preceded the ceremonies.

STUDY VICTIM'S PAST FOR CLEW TO HIS MURDER

The Deering street police investigating the slaying of Anthony Di Caro, 29 years old, who was shot to death in front of his home at 2956 Emerald avenue early yesterday, were delving into his former alleged bootleg activities in an effort to learn the slayer's motive. His wife, Pauline, who witnessed the shooting from the front window of her home, was unable to identify his assailant. Di Caro was in the beer cell cleaning business and formerly operated a tavern.

Freed to Go Hunting

MATT KIMES.

McAlester, Okla., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Matt Kimes, convicted bank robber slayer serving a life term in the state prison here, checked out of the penitentiary today in company with his attorney, presumably to go quail hunting. Kimes obtained a six day leave of absence from Gov. William H. Murray. He was convicted of slaying Deputy Sheriff Perry Chuculate of Salisaw.

WRITING EXPERTS BATTLE TODAY AT ROBLES HEARING

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 25.—(AP)—Handwriting experts laid the ground work here tonight for a battle over the extortion notes in the June Robles kidnapping case.

C. A. Appel and S. T. Pickering, government experts from Washington, D. C., are here to testify tomorrow against Oscar H. Robson, 39 year old Tucson night club operator held on charges of mailing notes in connection with the $15,000 ransom demand that never was paid.

Milton Carlson, Los Angeles handwriting analyst retained by the Robson defense, will face the government experts.

Twice brought under suspicion since the rescue of a year old June last May from an iron lined pit in the desert near Tucson, Robson was arrested by federal operatives Nov. 7.

Secrecy still veiled the government's case, but the federal operatives made known they had taken Robson into custody after the night club operator's handwriting had been compared with that in one of the notes to Fernando Robles, the father, and Bernabe Robles, grandfather of the little girl.

U. S. WINS POINT, REVIVES CASE OF BIG TOM BLAST

(Copyright 1934: By the Associated Press.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—America's representatives have just won an important victory in their attempt to reopen suits totaling $48,000, 000 against Germany for the Black Tom and Kingsland wartime "sabotage" explosions.

The case once has been decided against the United States. Americans, however, sought a rehearing, claiming new evidence. The German answer to that was a motion to disclose the new evidence.

The new evidence, including an affidavit by Jim Larkin, Irish labor agitator, and hitherto unrevealed testimony by 25 witnesses, was filed with the commission by the United States in support of its charge that secret German agents caused the explosions.

Owen J. Roberts, associate justice of the Supreme court, sitting as umpire in the case, has denied the German motion, ruling formally: "If the German agent's motion be considered, a demand that the American agent file a brief analyzing and discussing the evidence on which he relies prior to the German agent's filing any evidence he may desire to offer, it seems obvious that the request ought not be granted."

SOCIAL REGISTER DOESN'T WORRY PINCHOT NIECE

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 25.—(AP)—The moving pictures, Rosamond Pinchot believes, cost her a place in the 1935 New York social register, but the dropping of her name from that list today found her quite unconcerned. Miss Pinchot is a niece of Gov. Clifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

"The fact that I have been left out of the 1935 social register leaves me completely indifferent," said Miss Pinchot, who first won acclaim as the nun in Max Reinhardt's "Miracle," and is embarking now on a cinema career.

"If I never have to make any greater sacrifice for going into moving pictures it seems to me I will have had a wonderful break. At least professionals can no longer speak scornfully of me as a 'social registerite' dabbling in the art."

Miss Pinchot said the fact she has been separated from her husband, William Gaston, could not account for the register action.

"We have been separated for three years," she explained.

GUNSHOT VICTIM BELIEVED ONE OF 2 ROUTED BANDITS

Albert Mahler, 24 years old, 3334 North Ashland avenue, was near death in the Bridewell hospital yesterday suffering from gunshot wounds inflicted, police believe, by one of two brothers whom he attempted to rob earlier in the day.

Mahler was found in a car in front of 519 West North avenue, with five wounds. Meanwhile, Charles and Odessa Melillo, owners of the Pow Wow gardens, Franklin Park, reported that Odessa had fired five times at a gunman who attempted to rob them of $200 they were carrying in front of their home at 2300 Cullom avenue. The bandit escaped, although apparently wounded, in a car driven by a companion. The brothers looked at Mahler in the hospital and said he looked like one of the robbers.

Mahler was released from the Bridewell two months ago after serving a 6 months' sentence for larceny. The car in which he was found yesterday had been stolen Oct. 29 from Joseph Swanson, 2337 Commonwealth avenue. Police were searching for his accomplices, who apparently fled leaving Mahler to die.

BANKER AND HIS FAMILY SLAIN IN 2 GUN MYSTERY

Wife and 2 Children Die with Alabaman.

Demopolis, Ala., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A banker and his wife and two small children were found mysteriously slain in a bedroom of their home here today by a Negro maid who went to investigate when they did not answer for breakfast.

Frank Clement Smith, 36, cashier of the Commercial National bank here, shot through the head, was clad in pajamas and lying beside the bed on which his wife, the former Mrs. Elsie Hildreth Alstine, was found.

Wife Fully Clothed.
She had been shot twice in the chest. She was fully clothed. Her son by a former marriage, Frank Alstine, 3, was shot through the head. The Smiths' infant daughter, Sabre, was shot in the mouth.

Sheriff Sam Drinkard said two pistols were found in the bedroom, both of which had been fired. An automatic was found in a closet, and a revolver was under the bed.

Smith and his wife had been married less than two years, the sheriff said. "We understand they went to town together last night," he asserted, "and returned before midnight."

No Evidence of Burglary.
There was no evidence of burglary or that any person had forced entrance into the house.
Smith is a son of the late A. R. Smith, owner of the historic colonial home, Bluff Hall, which has been one of the show places of this section for generations.

Coroner Hickman questioned the Negro maid, Gertrude Robinson, late today and called a coroner's jury for Tuesday afternoon to continue the investigation. He said finger prints were found on the automatic. Four shells from the pistol were on the floor of the bedroom and three empty shells were in the revolver. Whether all of the shells in the revolver were recently fired could not be determined.

Mrs. Smith's former husband, Frank Alstine, lives in the west and has not been notified of her death, the coroner said. His address is not known. The woman was divorced from Alstine before returning to her home here about two years ago.

Police Quiz Auto Thief Suspect; Owner Walks In AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 26; recovered, 33; stripped, 8 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Saturday].

While Stockyards police were questioning Patrick Rowan, 28 years old, 543 West 44th street, early yesterday about an automobile with Nebraska license plates found in his possession, the owner entered the station and identified the car. He was D. D. Klise, Omaha, Neb., a coal salesman. He told police the car was stolen while he was in a tavern at 4613 South Halsted street.

SUSPECT SHOT NEAR HOLDUP.
Ralph Ellis, 17 years old, 5128 South State street, was shot in the left knee and captured by a Stockyards police squad early yesterday in an alley near a filling station at 235 West 47th street. Ellis was identified by Ray Hurley, the station attendant, as the man who had just robbed him of $17.

At 2,800 Fahrenheit

Corning, N. Y., Nov. 25.—(AP)—A 20 ton glass eye which will enable astronomers to speed the taking of pictures of heavenly bodies will be poured in early December at the Corning Glass works. The eye is a twin of the 200-inch disc cast last March and will be used in the world's largest telescope on Mount Palomar in southern California.

Raw materials—these including sand, alkali and borax—will flow into the furnace at the rate of 400 pounds an hour for three weeks. Previous to this the receiving tank will be heated for ten days. When the glass is ready to pour its temperature will be 2,800 degrees Fahrenheit.

"The exact date of the pouring," said Dr. J. C. Hostetter, the company's director of development and research, "depends on the exact time we find the glass melt has attained just the right condition."

Woman and Two Men Held as Stolen Goods Suspects

Martin Kostelny, 31 years old, 1416 South Harding avenue, and Mrs. Mary Gumba, 45 years old, were held at the detective bureau yesterday. They were arrested on Saturday night at Kostner and Archer avenues in an automobile containing clothing and drapes which police believed had been stolen. The two said they were on the way to see James Laaso, 26 years old, 5183 South Kostner avenue, who was held when clothing and furnishings worth about $5,000 were found in his flat.

ELLIS ISLAND IN AMERICAN LIFE.

Ellis Island, viewed by Willard Edwards of THE TRIBUNE, is an inactive but significant memento of America's past. This one-time gateway to the land of plenty, the asylum for the persecuted and of golden promise to the adventurous, now emptily echoes to the footsteps of its attendants. The stream of searching, wistful life has stopped.

For this the reasons are well enough known. America, seeking to protect its blood stream from too many infusions, to check the inflow of low priced common labor, and recognizing that its frontiers had been changed into populous regions, closed its gates except for the restricted quotas, and just when these restrictions were put into effect changing times made the golden dream of America less of a vivid vision in Europe. Hard times here destroyed the contrast which had made struggling Europeans wish to reach the shores of America at any price.

Although Ellis Island keeps theoretically open, as Mr. Edwards discovered, even Hindu and Moslem cooks to produce ritual menus for Hindus and Moslems who do not come, the principal business is that of caring for persons awaiting deportation. Probably under no conditions will the American ports ever again see the infowing tides of the great days when American population was receiving its annual increment of European millions.

In retrospect it is interesting to speculate upon the effect these increments had upon the American economy. The immigrants not only brought their various cultures and their desire to labor, but they brought their appetites and their consuming capacity. Not only new hands and minds were added, but new mouths. Each immigrant was eager to raise his standard of living and to enjoy as quickly as possible the fuller American life which had tempted him to uproot himself.

Some would press on west to the vacant lands and build up new communities. The railroads extended their lines to develop and serve these communities, and the various industries were busy making steel rails, cars, and equipment. Mining and lumbering had to keep pace. America had its new markets constantly coming to its own doors. The labor could be absorbed and each laborer became a consumer, needing clothes, houses, food, recreation, education, and increasing his needs as he bettered his lot.

As the newcomer prospered he might send remittances to the people he had left at home, and these were not inconsiderable items in the balance of trade which enabled Europe to buy from the United States. Just as in an expanding nation, even with a great public domain, there will be disappointing frontiers, so in immigration there will be a point of saturation. These particular golden days had to come to an end. A nation is always doing what it cannot afford to do; it is coming to a standstill and it must keep going. If it reaches a fixed status in one particular it must pick up its stride in another. The status quo is not maintainable, although the avenues for going ahead seem always to be closing. For a while in America new markets and new people were synonymous. Then new products and new markets became synonymous. It may be easier to keep the stride going with new products and new markets than to seek new markets and new territories. As Ellis Island loses its importance in American life an old era is closed. In American invention a new one will be opened.

THE OUTER BRIDGE.

Spokesmen for Peoria are seeking to induce the state highway department to build a new bridge over the Illinois at Peoria and take over maintenance of the two existing bridges. The Peorians argue that the state has slighted them. Peoria, they say, is one of the few riverside towns in Illinois for which a bridge has not been built at state expense. The plea is reinforced with the statement that Peoria contributes more to the state treasury in gasoline taxes than does any other downstream city.

The argument is a strong one and would be far stronger if the state highway department had acted favorably on the request of Chicago officials for funds for the completion of Chicago's outer bridge. Chicago is also a riverside city in Illinois. While it is not literally true that the state has contributed nothing for the construction of bridges in Chicago, the statement is not far from the truth, for the state's contribution has been almost negligible. Chicago, of course, pays as much in gasoline taxes as all the other cities in the state combined.

No other bridge in Illinois will carry a tenth of the traffic which will use the outer bridge, once it is built. The outer drives, north and south, are believed to be the most heavily traveled highways in the state. There is no highway improvement in the state of equivalent cost which will do more to relieve congestion and save time than the connecting of these two drives. The foundations are in and the approaches are partly built. If there is any highway bridge in Illinois which deserves state aid, it is this one.

WISCONSIN HANDLES SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Wisconsin since its admission to statehood has had a law which puts a limit to the time either party to an unsuccessful marriage can prevent the other from remarrying. It limits the penalty for a matrimonial mistake.

The law and its conscientious application have kept the state free from the evil which permits a woman who is unwilling to live with her husband from denying him permanently a second effort to achieve a normal family life.

Separate maintenance exists under the Wisconsin law but only for a definitely limited period. It has held part divorces to a minimum. A study of the divorce situation in Milwaukee, for instance, reveals that of several hundred just cleared from the court calendar fewer than a dozen were for separate maintenance or a divorce from bed and board, as that type of legally approved separation is known in that state.

The law in Wisconsin fixes a period of five years in which a wife may deny her husband a divorce while compelling him to support her under the protection of a bed and board decree. After five years, if there has been no move in good faith from either for a reconciliation and a resumption of the marriage state, either may sue for an absolute divorce which the court must grant.

The five years' legal separation is interpreted as a voluntary separation which under another section of the statutes is grounds for divorce.

The statute does away with the type of wife with a distaste for work and a similar distaste for marriage, who, nevertheless, marries, seeks and gets a separate maintenance decree and is fixed for life. She must either return and live with her husband or after five years he can divorce her and is free to marry again.

The Wisconsin courts have not sacrificed any of the rights or protections of honest, well meaning wives in their application of the law. A famous Supreme court decision has interpreted the annual sending of a Christmas card by a well intentioned wife to her separated husband as evidence of her effort to effect a reconciliation.

The question of support is not terminated. No husband is permitted after five years to thrust an indigent or incompetent wife upon the community nor to avoid paying for the support of his children. On the other hand, if the wife has sources of income or is capable of caring for herself when the final decree is granted, the courts have not hesitated to terminate the support period. Provision always is made for the care of the minor children, which are the first concern of the courts and society.

The law has served well to open the path to normal and right living to men whose first matrimonial investment proved unsuccessful. It has worked no hardship on any woman who contributed an honest share to her marriage.

In Wisconsin a matrimonial mistake is not a life sentence.

CITY NOISES.

The city council by resolution recommends that the police department stop unnecessary uses of automobile horns, pointing out that the horn may be sounded only in warning. It can be overused even then. Sometimes the motorist prefers to make a pedestrian jump out of the way rather than to slow down himself. The council's purpose is to reduce the city noises which wear on the nerves. In the complete volume of them the automobile horn sounds one note.

For complete success in reducing the city tumult, quietness must be built in, as for instance in the new type of street car, and as it was built in when the rubber tired automobile, moving over concrete, took the place of the steel rimmed wagon wheels rattling over granite blocks. A modern truck on concrete should be a quieter thing than a beer wagon on the granite blocks, and it is, provided it is muffled and operated as noiselessly as it can be.

The elimination of noise requires improved laying of rails and deadening of elevated construction. Not all the improvements can be quickly accomplished, or at once, but as a city makes itself a more desirable place for its people it will offer them less noise. Any steps which can be taken to muffle the sounds without causing the activity to lag will be of great benefit.

It used to be said that a great deal of smoke over a city was a good sign, because it indicated the production and use of power. It is known now that the power can be produced without the smoke, which in itself was merely a needless injury. It will be found true that activity can be had without a great deal of noise. If the noise measured the volume, the noisiest city would be the most prosperous one. But noise, like smoke, is a by-product without value.

Editorial of the Day

HE WOULD GET VOTES.

[Deatur, Ill., Herald.]

Huey Long's ambition to become a presidential candidate probably is not as empty threat. These opponents are far astute who assume that Long is not smart. He is smart. The unlikely, and even disgusting, personal qualities that are well known to all who have come near him are balanced by a remarkable political shrewdness. And, after all, how many voters ever come within close range of a candidate for President?

The amazing following recruited by Upton Sinclair in California is an evidence of the willingness of a large number of the people to follow unconventional leadership—providing it promises advantages to underdogs and appears to offer a definite plan of action.

Assuming the continuance in 1936 of the same conditions that existed in the recent campaign—the enormous number of unemployed, the unsatisfactory and pitifully inadequate relief measures, the fear of unemployment still haunting many of those fortunate enough to have jobs—"Sinclair's" campaign on a national scale, led by Huey Long with his "share the wealth" platform, would be no laughing matter. The terror of California industrialists would be transmitted across the continent.

The one good preventive for any such happening would be the success of the moderate remedies proposed by the present national administration. Nations do not fall into line behind a Hitler or a Long when they are even tolerably well off and hopeful. Men of that sort profit in an atmosphere of despair. When people begin to say, "We couldn't be any worse off; we might give him a trial," no good argument will prevail.

Under present conditions President Roosevelt does not stand between the country and Herbert Hoover. The American temper has gone far to the left since 1932 and today Roosevelt is the one bulwark against a Huey Long or a Floyd Olson.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

YALE PSYCHOLOGISTS are wrestling with what they call life's greatest problem, how to find the job for which you are best fitted. The life's greatest problem these days seems to be the finding of any old kind of job.

IS IT A MESSAGE FROM MARS? Anyhow, a radio experimenter has been receiving mysterious signals on a short wave radio apparatus that are so peculiar he thinks they must come from some planet, probably Mars. But no one has been able to translate the messages. That's easy. What would Mars or any of the planets that can get wireless connection with the earth be liable to ask us? The thing to do is to take the questions they would naturally ask us and find out which one fits. Now, Mars (if it's Mars) has been watching the earth for centuries through the most powerful telescopes and has a very fair idea of what goes on down here. So Mars is probably asking one of the following messages:

1. Is it cold enough for you?
2. Can you get me two tickets to the Minnesota game Saturday?
3. Who's the lady I saw you with last night?
4. Having grand time; wish you were here.
5. Guess who this is!
6. Have you got a match?

A WEIRD CARCASS has been washed up on the shores of the Pacific near Prince Rupert that scientists cannot classify. It is described as being thirty feet long, with a skin like sandpaper, a head resembling that of a horse and a tough hide partly covered by long hair and partly by spines or quills. Very simple! That would be Upton Sinclair's EPIC plan. Now, if the weird carcass had a head resembling that of an elephant we'd know right off the bat what it was.

SHADOW WORLD.

"Mistake not the shadow for substance."

If earthly things are shadow born,
Thought makes a garden, lush or shorn.
A Doric column must be strength
And faith is the horizon's length.
An old walled garden is romance,
A shining roulette wheel is chance.
Because of tears night knows of dew,
A dark rose buds for love of you.
The truth is sun, the lightning pain,
And starlight, peace returned again.
For each abstraction, senseproof—
God smiles and man has bread and roof.

LELA TERRY.

BLUE MONDAY TODAY! Ah yes, but there is much to wash out some of the blue, if not all of it. The only ones who really ought to be thoroughly convinced that this is Blue Monday and who cannot possibly be argued out of the idea are the turkeys. If you're not a turkey then pay no attention to this being Blue Monday. Remember that this is the Monday of Thanksgiving week, and that Thursday is Thanksgiving Day. Also recall that this is the last Monday but one before the Linebook of 1934 bursts upon an amazed and gratified world. For the new Linebook springs forth next week, Friday, Dec. 7. Therefore, be not cast down that this is dark Blue Monday.

IN THE ACCOUNT of the great trial proceedings Friday we read: "Attorney Thompson's voice broke. Tears rolled down his cheeks. Insult and the other defendants and their lawyers were beginning to sob. Attorney James G. Condon hid his face in his handkerchief. Mrs. Insult and other relatives of the men on trial, seated about the courtroom, wept openly as they leaned forward to hear Thompson's last words."

I'm glad I wasn't there. I always boo and carry on something dreadful all over the place when I get to crying, and I don't shed tears, I just rain 'em in buckets.

MOST OF THE EASTERN STATES have passed laws against wiggling the thumbs at passing motorists, and the western states are considering the law. The day seems to be dawning when the hitchhikers will have to earn some money and pay for their tickets on the buses or the choo-choo cars. Which will just about break their hearts.

AFTER FORTY.

After forty a woman needs
Some of philosophy's helpful creeds.
She knows that she hasn't an earthly chance
To emulate twenty in any dance;
And her mirror remarks in a horrified tone,
"My dear, you will have to let beige alone!"
It is some little comfort if she can say
"I never liked dancing and beige anyway."
But if she can forswear her mirror and look
With joy at a fireside and a book,
She's learned a lot, and some day she'll find
That happiness is a state of mind.
But after forty the sledding's tough
Until she can learn that enough's enough!

MARJORIE F. W.

AND NOW COMES one of the saddest parts of the year to me, because on every hand I see signs reading, "Gay Gifts for the Yuletide," and "Merry Yule Time Post Cards," and "Get Ready for the Yuletide." Why is it that we are so constituted that certain words give us a pain in the neck? Maybe Yule hurts me because the speakers over the radio pronounce it "Yool," or because I once heard a song called, "Yule be sorry when you find I've gone away." Or maybe there's no reason at all, or maybe it's hereditary. Perhaps I had a relative hanged at Yuletide. Anyhow, it's an unpleasant word so far as I'm concerned.

"U. S. AND GREAT BRITAIN Hurl Reply to Japan's Naval Defiance."—Headline. Far be it from me to think up snappy comebacks for Japan, but it would be rather neat if Japan countered with: "Well, what are you going to do about it?"

BURNS.

PROMETHEUS stole fire from the hearthstones of the gods as a gift for man. Unfortunately, immediate and prompt control of fire failed to accompany the gift.

With the birth of antiseptic surgery it was thought that the treatment of burns would become a very simple problem. This did not prove to be the case, as certain factors other than infection were found to be of great importance. Following Joseph Lister's discovery, however, dilute carbolic acid was employed as a result the burned area for the skin received more attention at the hands of the physician than did the general condition of the patient. In spite of the antiseptic method of treatment deaths from burns were about as frequent.

We may consider the human skin as composed of three layers, the third or deepest layer containing the fine capillaries or blood vessels. A burn not only destroys one or more of these layers, but brings about absorption into the blood of toxic properties generated by the destruction of skin protein. The burned area is poisonous, the dissolved portions of which on reaching the blood stream cause damage to vital organs of the body. Enough poison may be absorbed from an extensively burned surface to cause death within a few hours.

Recent reports indicate that the use of tannic acid in 10 per cent solution, suggested by Davidson in 1925, is followed by most salutary results. This substance applied to the burned areas results in the formation of a sterile, firm coating and prevents the loss of body fluids and heat. Furthermore, it is probable that the acid coagulates toxins and toxin forming material, so that absorption of these poisonous products does not occur.

No attempt is made to remove clothing that adheres to the skin, although loose pieces of clothing and skin, if present, are removed. Every particle of the burned area is sprayed with the tannic acid solution every fifteen minutes for the first few hours.

The blood hemoglobin must be watched, as it is an accurate index of the need for fluid. Normal salt solution should be given under the skin in fairly large amounts. Blood transfusions are in many instances life savers. Bed clothing should be changed frequently.

TATTOO MARKS.

W. L. M. writes: Can tattoo marks be removed?

REPLY.
Yes, by surgery and subsequent skin grafting—usually a long and costly process. Surgical diathermy has been tried and is occasionally successful when the area is small. Why disfigure the skin with such art?

CLUB FEET.

Mrs. G. H. writes: What is the cause of a baby being born with club feet?

REPLY.
This is a congenital defect the cause of which is not known.

KAUNAS, Lithuania. — Although Franco-Polish relations are growing worse, French relations with Lithuania are much improved, according to the official government newspaper Lietuvos Aidas. It characterized the large attendance at the memorial services and meetings commemorating the death of Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, and former President Raymond Poincaré as evidence of growing friendship for France in Lithuania.

French public opinion, which has shown sympathy for Lithuania's problems, is also helping to improve relations between our countries," reports Lietuvos Aidas. "This movement has been accelerated by the efforts of both countries for peace."

"The attitude of Poland towards the energetic and tireless efforts of France to promote peace has not surprised Lithuania. Even though Poland is indebted to France for her independence this has not prevented Warsaw from conspiring with Berlin to prevent realization of the French plans."

"Poland's betrayal of France is the greatest blow French diplomacy has received since the war. But this did not astonish us, for Lithuania has already experienced Poland's unwillingness to respect the treaties she has signed. Lithuania is only surprised that some circles in France still hope that Poland will see the error of her policy. France, which has never broken

THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE BETWEEN ENERGY AND MATTER.

ALBERT EINSTEIN

In 1905 Dr. Albert Einstein announced the theory that matter and energy were the same thing. Since that time an enormous amount of research has been done on this question and such scientists as R. A. Millikan and Sir Francis W. Aston (Nobel prize winners) have concluded that Einstein is right. Their conclusions are based on studies of the nuclear hearts of atoms. They believe that matter and energy are two forms of the same thing.

FROM BERNARD BARUCH.

New York, Nov. 19.—I have before me your editorial, "B. Baruch, Pathologist." You never have seen anywhere an expression by me that entitles you to say as you did in your editorial, "Men like Baruch who expressed an opinion at the time said that if the stimulus of artificially low interest rates produced an inflation it would and could be controlled."

I have never said that inflation could be controlled. In fact, I have always taken the opposite stand in every statement I have ever made. Perhaps it might interest you to read an article by me which was published in the Saturday Evening Post. You also might be interested to read my testimony before the senate finance committee.

Your reference to my being adviser to the President is news to me and if the title is merited I know nothing of it and I am quite sure the President knows nothing about it.

RECIPE FOR SACRILEGE.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—O shades of our grandmothers' buckwheat cakes! E. M. A. in a letter of Nov. 15, giving a recipe for buckwheat cakes to L. J. K., suggests adding white flour to the batter! This is a sacrilege—nothing less. L. J. K. had far better make his threatened appeal to Gertrude Stein and use any old poem she might concoct. And, adding insult to injury, E. M. A. puts buttermilk in the batter! Nothing in the shape of liquid but lukewarm water ever entered the batter of the old fashioned buckwheat cakes for which L. J. K. so ardently yearns.

Otherwise E. M. A.'s recipe is good, except that the original batter making be at least three days old before making its debut.

ANOTHER CRY OF DISTRESS.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 22.—One of your contributors bewailed the disappearance of buckwheat cakes. Why, O, why have the cornmeal pancakes disappeared from the menu card? Buckwheat and cornmeal pancakes have given way to some synthetic mixture called griddle cakes. Buckwheat cakes and bacon gravy for winter, and cornmeal cakes, butter, and maple sirup at any time! G. R. H.

THINGS HEARD.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—I would suggest that Mr. Quin Ryan—whose broadcasts are most enjoyable—sometimes consult the old timers in preparing his "Headlines of Other Days." Any of the girls of the gay nineties would know that the white peck shirts, on sale at the department stores at that time, were called "pee-kay" shirts—was not "peek."

During another broadcast—a political meeting before election—a leading Democrat announced that he was extending "facilities" to the gentlemen assembled. In the light of election returns, a few days later, I think they must have been unanimously adopted.

E. M. G.

AS FOR INSTANCE.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Is there any way that the common, garden variety of citizen can get private work done free? By private work I mean laying cement sidewalks in front of the house and elsewhere, and having the snow shoveled after every storm, and other things free. I can't understand why politicians and heads of departments should be the only ones to have this privilege. A little honest investigation along these lines might be an eye opener.

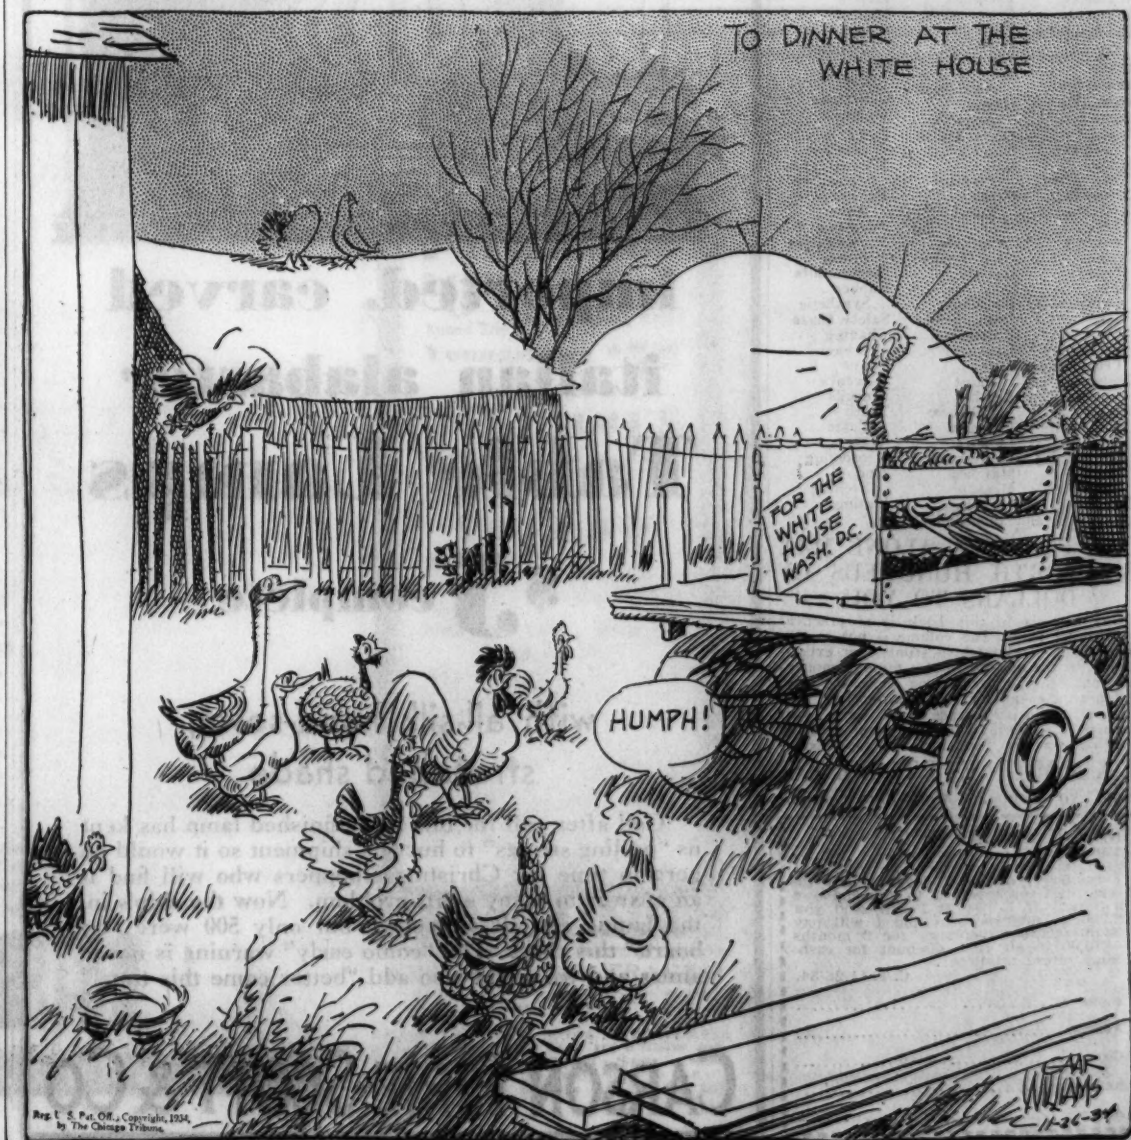

FUELED CITIZEN.

SACRIFICES DEMANDED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—America can recapture its economic security without resorting to communist or fascist expedients if its industrial leaders are willing to make reasonable sacrifices in the interests of industrial planning. With the rising tide of communism, fascism, or socialism throughout the world today democracy in America is on trial. Whether it succeeds and stands this tide or falls and is inundated by it depends upon how far we are willing to go in giving up some of our long enjoyed rights and privileges. Welfare of small business and the farmers must be kept in mind.

SEAWAY TREATY MAY BRING ROW AT RIVER PARLEY

25 States Represented at St. Louis Meeting.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 25.—(P)—Midwestern river improvement advocates, cheered by the recent achievement of many of their aims, face probable dissension here tomorrow over the question of the St. Lawrence seaway treaty and further regulation of inland carriers.

More than 500 delegates representing industrial, shipping, agricultural, and commercial interests in 25 states will gather for the sixteenth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association. The meeting will close Tuesday.

Consideration of the seaway treaty and protection of river transportation carriers "from regulation and control under the automatic power of a railroad minded commission and from the evil effects of the rate-slashing policy of the railroads designed to destroy river competition" are two of the announced questions for debate.

Eastman to be Speaker.

Among the numerous prominent speakers on the program is Joseph R. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation. Theodore Brent, traffic counselor of New Orleans, is expected to reply to Eastman's proposals.

Other speakers will include Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways corporation, Secretary of War Dorn, A. J. Weaver, former governor of Nebraska; Col. Robert Isham Randolph, Chicago, president of the association; United States Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri; Maj. Gen. Edward M. Markham, chief of army engineers, United States Senator William H. Dieterich of Illinois; United States Senator-elect Edward R. Burke, Nebraska, and Governor-elect Bibb Graves, Alabama.

Col. Randolph, who arrived ahead of most of the delegates, said today that a study of the recent election results indicated a repetition of last year's 46 to 42 defeat of the St. Lawrence treaty in the senate. President Roosevelt has announced intention to re-submit the treaty to the senate in January.

Opposes Diversion Limit.

Last year the Mississippi Valley association indicated the project in principle, but opposed provisions of article eight which limit diversion from Lake Michigan at Chicago to 1,500 cubic second feet. Opponents of the article charge this is insufficient to insure commercially successful navigation on the Illinois waterway.

Col. Randolph said Chicago waterway leaders have not withdrawn objections to the article.

The traffic committee of the association was in session today, working on a report to be submitted to the convention Tuesday. C. E. Childs, Omaha, chairman of the committee, said he would submit recommendations for proposed federal regulation of rates and services of inland water carriers, and for modification of existing regulations of railroads.

ATTORNEY IS ILL; POSTPONE BUS MURDER TRIALS

Because of the illness of Attorney Michael Aherne the murder and conspiracy trials growing out of the bus strike, which were scheduled for hearing today before Judge John C. Lewis, will be postponed. First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley announced yesterday. Attorney Aherne was stricken with influenza last week, toward the close of the Trucking and Transport exchange trial, in which he was a defense counsel. At his home yesterday it was said he was recovering but would be bedfast through this week.

William Taber and Joseph Kehoe, officials of the street car men's union and patrons of the union formed to include Chicago bus employees, have retained Attorney Aherne to defend them on charges of murder resulting from two deaths that occurred in the strike. They are at liberty on bail. Ralph Stoltzmann, president of the bus drivers' union [not the one to which present employees of the Chicago Motor Coach company belong] is still in jail. Taber, Kehoe, and Stoltzmann, along with fourteen others, are charged with murder, and an additional indictment names 26 men on charges of strike violence.

Mr. Crowley said it now appears that the trial will not be held until after the Christmas holidays.

PRAIRIE DOGS, LACK OF CASH PERIL SHELTER

Big Timber Project Is Put in Doubt.

BY CHESLEY MANLY.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Controller General McCarl, who said no, is only one of the many obstacles the New Deal must overcome before its $75,000,000 shelter belt spans the great plains from Canada to Texas and stems the searing siroccos from the great beyond.

The controller general's objection to the expenditure merely was technical, whereas the other difficulties have to do with nature—the mortality rate of trees in this region, the depredation of prairie dogs and ground squirrels on tender seedlings, the ravages of the wild horses and the well known fact that the worms on which the birds rise to heights of several thousand feet and travel several hundred miles.

Fantastic Idea, Some Say.

Chief Forester F. A. Silcox is aware of all these problems and frankly admits that a great many people think the shelter belt project is "plain nuts," but he has not despaired, and five different bureaus of the government already have put a large dent in the million dollars President Roosevelt gave them for the preliminary planning.

By spring, Silcox says, they will be ready to plant the first 5,000,000 of the 120,000,000 seedlings this 1,000 mile long project will require. The forest service has thirty or forty supervisors in the field buying and collecting seedlings, negotiating with farmers for long term leases of land and with nursery owners for their facilities and services. Working under the supervisors is a much larger force of hands recruited in the territory.

Fighting Ground Squirrels.

The bureau of biological survey is at work on the problem of exterminating ground squirrels and prairie dogs. They have already arrived at the important conclusion of what must be done: Poison the rodents. Fences are to be erected to keep out the wild horses, lest they browse or trample upon the seedlings. This, however, is a problem of the forestry service. The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine are collaborating on the problem of safeguarding the young trees from the ravages of pests.

Million for Survey.

President Roosevelt, by executive order, gave the forest service $1,000,000 for the survey and preliminary work on the project and allotted another $15,000,000 for the initial planning. Controller General McCarl allowed the $1,000,000, on the ground that it would put men to work, but ruled out the $15,000,000 on the theory that the undertaking was of a permanent and not an emergency nature. President Roosevelt has said this ruling would not stop the project, and the next congress will be asked for legislation to carry it out.

70 DISCREPANCIES IN HAUPTMANN'S TALE, IS CHARGE

Flemington, N. J., Nov. 25.—(P)—Hunterson county prosecutor, Anthony M. Hauck, asserted today that the state had uncovered "More than 70 discrepancies" in stories told by Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Lindbergh kidnap-murder suspect.

Most of the alleged discrepancies, Hauck said, will not be made public until the prosecution uses them in the trial, scheduled to open Jan. 2.

Hauptmann, meanwhile, prepared to celebrate his 36th birthday tomorrow without any change from the jail routine. No gifts will be accepted for him and Mrs. Hauptmann will not be permitted to enter the bullpen. The defense will mark the day by applying formally to Hauck for a bill of particulars in the case.

Plan Tree Feeding Test.

Nov. 25, 1934.

TWO different methods of "feeding" trees will be tested during the next year by John Wallner, head gardener at THIS TRIBUNE auxiliary farm near Wheaton. He will make comparisons on the growth of the trees fertilized by the so-called "punch" method and the "surface or fork" method.

Both methods have been used by Mr. Wallner. In the past he has found that for a deep rooted tree, such as the oak, the punch method is valuable because it gets the fertilizing material down deep into the soil where it will come in contact with the small roots.

In the punch method the fertilizer is poured into a hole punched with a crowbar or a sharp broom stick to a depth of eighteen inches. The hole is filled with fertilizer to within about three inches of the surface and then closed.

In the surface method the material is applied by sticking a fork into the ground to a depth of six inches or more so the soil may be lifted and the fertilizer poured under it. This method has been found valuable where the roots are near the surface, as they are with poplars and catalpas trees.

In the tests Mr. Wallner is using a bone meal which contains 26 per cent phosphoric acid and 2½ per cent of nitrogen, and a commercial fertilizer containing 4 per cent nitrogen, 12 per cent phosphoric acid, and 4 per cent water soluble potash.

Mr. Wallner is using the latter method in fertilizing some of the elms at the Tribune auxiliary farm, because the roots of some of these trees are near the surface.

In general his plan is to apply the bone meal and a well balanced commercial fertilizer to the trees about every two or three years.

THE Illinois officials will seek to clarify Illinois' status on the relief question and thus set at rest many rumors concerning government requirements on future relief grants. Of immediate import is the state's need of $12,061,000 to run the relief machines during December.

According to Howard O. Hunter, district FERA representative, Gov. Horner has promised to ask the general assembly at the January session to provide $2,000,000 monthly out of state funds for the relief rolls.

The conference was to have been held in Chicago last week, but the officials missed connections when Administrator Hopkins' train was delayed. Mayor Kelly left for New York and Gov. Horner flew to Springfield. While in Chicago Hopkins refused to say that the FERA had decided to grant the necessary $12,061,000 for December's needs but stated that "we are in agreement; all is harmonious."

Did you SAVE $27.23 on Car Insurance?

DO YOU know that you could have saved 20% of the cost of your automobile insurance by dealing direct with Liberty Mutual?

Liberty sells at the same standard initial rates as all reliable companies. But by dealing direct with Liberty you do not pay big sales commissions and you do not have to pay for many costly accidents caused by careless, irresponsible drivers.

Under Liberty's strictly mutual plan, these savings are returned to policyholders in the form of cash dividends.

Every year, for 22 years, a cash dividend of 20% of the premium paid has been returned to policyholders. Over $40,000,000 has thus been saved for car-owners and other liability insurance buyers. You, too, could have reduced the yearly cost of your car insurance by dealing direct with Liberty. And you would have received protection from one of the largest, strongest companies in America—a company which has increased in size and strength right through the depression.

No insurance company has a better reputation for settling claims. 99% of all accident cases are settled out of court. Liberty's full-time, claim-adjusting staff works with speed, fairness, courtesy.

Telephone or visit the nearest Liberty Mutual office listed below. A trained representative will give you all the details about insuring your car and will not annoy you with "high-pressure" selling. Or, send coupon below for facts about how you may safely reduce the cost of your car insurance.

A BIG CITY in a Buying Mood

A city the size of the sixth largest in the United States to give you plenty of customers.

Housed in good homes—apartments, penthouses, cottages, suburban residences. Populated with people who live comfortably and earn incomes that automatically make them your prospects.

People with whom the buying mood is a habit because they have many needs, many wants . . . and know how to fulfill them.

That is the market of the New York Herald Tribune every day in the week. And it's available at reasonable rates to manufacturers and merchants who know how important it is to get both volume and quality in the advertising they buy. Here is good circulation—and lots of it.

The gain in advertising lineage that 1934 has brought to the Herald Tribune is important information for any man who wants to know the most economical way to spend his advertising dollar in New York. So is the story of the requests that come in by the thousands each day asking for household help and buying guidance. Needs to fill, money to spend, a buying mood—these are the distinguishing features of able-to-buy families. And the Herald Tribune can deliver them to you in profitable numbers.

Have your agency give you more facts about the New York Herald Tribune. Read the paper yourself for a day or two. It's worth while to get acquainted with this easy-to-reach market.

Society Starts Early Trek to Winter Homes

Mrs. George A. McKinlock
Ready to Go South.

BY JUDITH CASS.
CHICAGO'S first real winter weather is apt to make one's thoughts turn to warmer climes, whether a winter vacation is in prospect or whether one will enjoy it vicariously through travel folders and letters from more fortunate friends. The trek to places where the sun shines brighter and more frequently than it does in the north in winter is beginning earlier than ever this year and from Palm Beach comes word that several hundred families already are established in winter homes there. Many of them went directly there from their summer homes, stopping in the cities which they used to call home just for short intervals.

Mrs. George A. McKinlock is leaving Wednesday of this week for Palm Beach to spend the winter at Casa Alejandro, one of the most beautiful places there. Mr. McKinlock will join his wife a bit later in the season. The grounds of Casa Alejandro are admired greatly by passersby, who can see but little of the gardens, however, for they are concealed behind a high wall. Through iron grilles gates one can catch glimpses of them, however, and revel in the beauty of the crimson bougainvillea vines which cover the stucco walls of the house and now are in the full luxuriance of their blooms.

Give Landscape Plan for Admired Street.
One of the most admired streets in Palm Beach is Wells road, which was landscaped under the direction of the town planning board and the Palm Beach Garden club from plans presented to the town by Mrs. McKinlock and Mrs. Henry R. Rea. Tall rows of Australian pines are beautifully trimmed in conical shape and are interspersed with exquisite scarlet hibiscus flowering shrubs. This adjoins the Edward T. Stotesbury estate, renowned for its beauty.

Mrs. Florence Thompson Thomas, who spends most of the year in Palm Beach now, coming to Chicago only occasionally for short stays, plans to rent her large house in the Jungle Point section this winter and to take a small villa for herself and her children. Her mother, Mrs. John R. Thompson, will spend a part of the winter with her.

Mrs. Eleanor Noyes Orr already has left Chicago and is at her home on Sea Breeze avenue for the winter. Her daughter, Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth of New York, and her family, are at the Fontaine, their Palm Beach home, for the first time in two years. Mrs. Frank Orgood Butler is going to Palm Beach to occupy her house in the Via Bethesda this week and will be joined later by other members of the family.

Mrs. Butler and Mother Soon to Go to Resort.
Mrs. Stresenreuter Butler is going soon to Palm Beach and so is her mother, Countess Carlo Filippini. The Filippinis plan to rent their house this winter and will occupy an apartment on the lake front. Mrs. Noel Seeburg and her children left Chicago recently for Palm Beach, where they are occupying a house on Australian avenue. They will be joined soon by Mr. Seeburg's mother, Mrs. Justus Seeburg.

Our correspondent in Palm Beach reports that there are twenty-two palatial new homes there and that one of the finest of these is one in Via del Mar that is owned by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alexander of Lake Forest. For the last two seasons the Alexanders occupied the Warner L. Jones house in Via la Selva. They do not plan to go south to open up their lovely new house until after Christmas, but when they do open it, they will have an almost continuous house party for the rest of the winter, for they have invited a large number of their friends and those of their daughter, Miss Betty, to visit them.

Chicagoans Begin Gathering in Phoenix.
In the same mail that brought the Palm Beach letter came one from another place where many Chicagoans spend the winter or a part of it—Phoenix, Ariz. The desert and mountains out there are very different from Palm Beach, to some extent attractive and to others less so than Florida.

Jarvis Hunt, who spent the summer in Wheaton, always is one of the earliest to arrive at the winter colony at Arcadia, about ten miles from Phoenix, and our correspondent writes that every day he is to be found working in his garden, where he is developing a remarkable variety of desert and cactus growth or playing croquet with some of his guests or neighbors. It is seldom that his lovely Spanish house at the foot of Camelback mountain hasn't one or more guests, for his hospitality is noted and many Chicagoans enjoy it each winter.

The Burdine Butlers, who are neighbors of Mr. Hunt, also have an

Miss Barbara Eldridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eldridge, is one of the most faithful volunteer workers at St. Luke's hospital. She spends many hours each week helping in the clinic and entertaining the children. The recent auction sale held in the old Potter Palmer mansion for the benefit of St. Luke's and the Children's Memorial hospital netted $9,000.

Fritz Kreisler Achieves New Triumph Here

Plays Sonata, Concerto, Short Numbers.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It is one of the violinistic events of the season when Fritz Kreisler comes to town, and the only trouble with his recital at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon was that it was announced as his only appearance of the season. His warm, radiant tone, his unflinching grasp of what the composer wants, his own personal charm make him the ideal interpreter. As a result the Frank Sonata, played with Carl Lamsen, took on renewed youth and vitality.

To show he is still to be reckoned with among the virtuosos, Mr. Kreisler next played the Tchaikovsky Concerto, and it was the performance of the final section of the "Labor Symphony," not only for its accurate and energetic performance but because of the illusion of mechanism by bodily formations.

Bela Martay, a young violinist who lives in Chicago and has just returned from a period of study abroad, made an excellent introduction to his home town at Orchestra hall. He plays with an alert and sensitive tone, his technical abilities are highly developed, and he has an air of cool detachment about his interpretations that gave special interest to his performance of the Mozart Sonata in A. The Tchaikovsky Concerto was another item on his program, and later he presented some new Hungarian works by Kodaly and Hubay.

Saturday's opera performance added works to the repertoire and successful appearances to the records. "La Boheme" in the afternoon, if somewhat leisurely in tempo, was a beautiful example of singing. Edith Mason was an ideal Mimì; Margery Maxwell, first of the Musettas, gave an uncommonly brilliant performance, even for her; Giuseppe Belmontelli, as Rodolfo, added to the high reputation he has already established; Claudio Frigerio, Wilfrid Engelmann, and Guido Guidi were of great importance in adding to

THE Chicago Motor Coach company may have occasional troubles, but so far it has not had, probably, any such trouble as recently gave the bus company of San Diego an anxious night. The story was originally told by Walter R. Kirk. It seems that a well known San Diego man had spent the evening in Tia Juana, and as he crossed the boundary between Mexico and the United States he was stopped by a policeman. The policeman told him he was drunk and that instead of driving his car home he must drive home in the bus that runs between Tia Juana and San Diego.

The man, despite his protestations that though he had been drinking he was not drunk, was forced to park his car near the custom house. When he reached the spot where the bus was standing he found it empty, as the driver had gone off to eat his supper. Following the policeman's instructions to the letter he got into the bus and drove home to San Diego.

The following morning he was astonished to find a bus parked in front of his door surrounded by a curious crowd. The bus company, after a night spent trying to solve the mystery of the runaway bus, finally settled the matter by charging the amateur bus driver a sum equivalent to 100 fares.

In the morning mail: "Nell Sonfile apparently meant there are only three people living NOT POLES who can pronounce 'Przemysl' correctly. Ask her if she can pronounce this sentence: 'Przemysl chcezas to trapiate,' which the fine ensemble, and there was expert comedy by Pomplio Malatesta. "There was an unexpected debut in the evening. Franco Smitigil was out of the cast with laryngitis, and her role of Leonora was filled on short notice by Della Behni, in private life Della Benning of Milwaukee, who had been announced to make her debut in Norma later in the season. With her in the cast were two superb singers, Giovanni Martignelli as Don Alvaro and Chuse Barromeo as the abbot, and some excellent artists in lesser roles, Ada Engel, Carlo Merelli, Edior Talsky, and others.

Another attack of illness will cause a change in tonight's cast. Lotte Lehmann is obliged to defer her appearance here for a time, and Maria Jeritz will sing the role of Elsa in "Lohengrin."

Good Morning!
It's like old Oriental theater days over at the Chicago this week—the days when first show audiences rushed down the aisles, like cattle down the runways at the stockyards, to hear Paul Ash and his band.

Joe Penner, appearing both in the picture and on the stage, is apparently the cause of it all.

Why, I do not know.

The film is a haphazard musical comedy with the football influence. It has no sense, but considerable synchronization. Its principal song is "Stay As Sweet As You Are"—a tune already growing radio whiskers. Pretty, though. And Larry Slater who sings it has quite a voice, though none too much screen personality. Take that slur with a grain of salt. His role as the piccolo playing son of a rich papa, doesn't offer him much opportunity to get ahead.

He, Jack Oakie as a famous gridiron hero, Mary Brian—gone completely blonde—and Helen Mack as the girl who loves Larry hopelessly till the last reel, are the featured players. Excepting, of course, Joe Penner, who, duck in arm, plays football mascot and general all around pizze moron. [They say he's really a nice chap.]

The plot?

I assure you it's not worth bothering about.

See you tomorrow.

Rotarians' Wives to Be Guests of Club Tomorrow

"The American Adventure" will be the subject of an address at a women's day meeting of the Rotary Club of Chicago by the Rev. M. Russell Boynton, minister of Bryn Mawr Community church. The meeting will be in the ballroom of the Hotel Sherman at noon tomorrow.

THE STAGE

Tonight's premiere of Edward Sheldon's drama, "Romance," in revival at the Blackstone theater, marks the debut of a new Chicago producing firm—Playgoers, Inc. organized by Seymour Blair and Luther Greene. These two young men are stagehands in association with Leslie Casey and James Liddle, managers of last summer's "Fresh Fields" with Margaret Anglin as star.

Miss Leontovich has not acted in Chicago since the "Grand Hotel" in the winter of 1932. "Romance" gives her the role of a seductive Italian opera singer during a brief and poignant love affair with a romantic young clergyman.

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson, the team of comedians who used to be peculiarly Chicago's own, are stars of the stage show at the Oriental theater this week. They head a revue that contains about fifty other performers, and although their material is new it contains vestiges of "Take a Chance" which they furnished here during the first season of the Fair.

"Jayhawk," the civil war drama by Sinclair and Lloyd Lewis, ended its New York run last Saturday night with three weeks to its credit. The prospects of a tour are uncertain, but the play seems to be the sort of thing for which the circuit of American theater societies was organized.

The Mundelein college production of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night," with a cast of young women students, will show its last performance tonight. The play has been staged in the old Globe theater manner.

Dashing Dance Dresses Allow Foot Freedom

Delightful New Models Will Go Places.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Dance dress surgery, no less. Dashing, delightful new clothes featured in a grand collection of young creations for "young dancers who go places to dance, not to decorate the wall benches."

And, are these models made for action and plenty of it? Practically every one of them is trim, clear, the floor a good two inches, and slashed or slit strategically when the dress is one of the sheath variety.

Most of them are wide of skirt billowing around the knees or hemline, and without any argument the most flattering clothes in town.

There's a dull white wrinkled crepe that will make all star lines waver and make the girl who wears it look as though she had been poured into the thing. Around the flatteringly bodice top is a narrow upstanding plating that is repeated in the four inch plating circling the hem. It is backless, with narrow straps and over it is worn one of the most entrancing short jade green velvet jackets ever unpacked. Two huge green silk cord frogs keep it snug at the waistline. The sleeves are long and tight and with an infinitesimal peplum that makes for added dash.

Another heart breaker is a smooth violet satin, severely plain but fitted with bias seams and flaring at the hem. Very high, draped, and draped at the front, almost nothing at the back, but what makes it the potential pet of any good wardrobe is the dashing crimson velvet cape made to wear with it. This cape is slashed deeply so that it can be worn buttoned down the front or over the shoulders.

Then they'll show you the full skirted picture dress made for dancing—yards of faille more makes the skirt, with a bodice top made to hug the ribs and a puffed waist about the collar. After that comes a fine good evening dress from pale pink to black.

There's a carbon pencil blue bagheera, form fitting, with slits in the skirt for freedom, that is worn under a long creamy white velvet evening wrap, collared in chinchilla, a slinky black crepe outlined around the bodice top with scintillating rhinestone bands and back straps and quantities of all shades of red frogs ready for the early buying rush of partygoers.

Episcopal Choristers Give Festival in Three Churches

Men and boy choristers from eight Episcopal churches of the city and suburbs yesterday held their annual fall festival. The 540 singers were divided into three groups with each group offering a musical service in a leading church in a section of the city. The groups from north side and north shore churches met at the Church of the Atonement, Kenmore and Ardmore avenues. Those of the west side assembled at Emmanuel church, La Grange, while those of the south side were in charge of the music at St. Paul's church, Kenwood.

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS

Rhoda Cornboise's engagement to Maj. Ralph Starnack is arranged by her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving sentence in prison for the murder of a Canadian soldier in a London night club. Chief witness against Colin was Maj. Starnack, who was the soldier's host. Rhoda met Starnack when he called to express his regret for the testimony he had to give at her lover's trial. Jack Caermann, an old pal of Colin's, is his lawyer. Caermann takes Colin's place as prisoner, allowing Colin to use his week's vacation. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Starnack. They spend a brief honeymoon. Then Colin returns to prison. Rhoda returns home and turns a deaf ear to her mother's pleas. Her mother believes her to marry Starnack, who is still willing. He and his confederates know she has inherited the fortune of a Canadian relative. The soldier had come to London to tell her of it. Starnack calls on Caermann and they quarrel. Jack suspects Starnack of the crime for which Colin was convicted, and he quarrels. Rhoda elopes with Colin on the eve of her marriage to Starnack. Rhoda, who is expecting a baby, leaves home and stays with friends of Caermann's, the Howells, in London. Her mother follows with a court order, placing Rhoda under her charge. Caermann has the soldier's journal, start a private investigation. Mrs. Cornboise takes Rhoda to France, where her son is born. The baby is left there when they return to London. Caermann arranges to get Colin out of prison again for a few days. Rhoda flies with Colin to see their son. Her mother is at the airport when they return and sees Colin. Her fear of scandal keeps her from turning him over to the police. Colin goes back to prison.

INSTALMENT XXXI. BEHIND PRISON BARS.

The girl started out of her sleep as her mother came in. "Time to dress for dinner, darling! Maj. Starnack rang up and asked you to go to a theater with him and I accepted on your behalf." In time Rhoda remembered the truce—remembered that Jack Caermann was still in deadly peril.

"I'd better hurry up," she said with what good grace she could. "Maj. Starnack is being very good about your father's investments," said Mrs. Cornboise. "In fact, if he goes on being friendly to us we shall be quite comfortable again—instead of having to live on our capital, as we are at present. He certainly is an extremely nice man."

"Yes, mother."

"Of course, I don't want you to come to any kind of hasty decision. Whatever you may eventually decide, it would be quite a good thing to keep him in town—go about with him for a bit. And, of course, it would be very unwise—it would be very hard on your father—if you were to tell Maj. Starnack anything that might upset him."

"I quite understand, mother!"

"There's a dear girl! I thought you would," said Mrs. Cornboise contentedly, and left the room.

He took her to a light musical show that made no demand on her attention.

She was satisfied enough with the way things stood at the moment. But Mrs. Cornboise was a long way from being a fool. She knew that rebellion might come at any time and she intended to get as many facts about Colin Briarley as she possibly could. For ammunition in the long-drawn battle, in which victory would mean the subjection of her daughter and an end of the unpleasant whispers that were already being circulated about the Cornboises.

"My dear, you look radiant!" Rhoda smiled up at Starnack, who had met her in the hall as she came down to dinner.

"But just a little bit frightened of me," he went on. "And I know why—you're expecting a baby, aren't you? I expect I admitted all the wrong things. Anyhow, I improved my French."

Rhoda laughed a prayer of thankfulness that the tax had stopped. She smiled up at Starnack, who had met her in the hall as she came down to dinner.

"I didn't think you would bore me with a catechism or anything else," she returned. "But you're quite right—I expect I admitted all the wrong things. Anyhow, I improved my French."

She smiled up at Starnack, who had met her in the hall as she came down to dinner. He took her to a light musical show that made no demand on her attention.

In her ear he poured a stream of amusing nonsense and kept her in a ripple of laughter. Now and again she would pull herself up with the thought that she was allowing herself to laugh while Colin was making his way back to prison and Jack Caermann's future trembled in the balance.

In the taxi on the way back to the hotel he took and held her hand and as they approached the hotel he put an arm round her and gently kissed her. "My dear, I have missed you very much indeed," he said.

She smiled up at Starnack, who had met her in the hall as she came down to dinner. He took her to a light musical show that made no demand on her attention.

She followed him across an inner courtyard, then through an archway and into a garden, quite comfortable office in which two men were seated. One of them a clerkman. Both rose as she came in.

The deputy governor then handed her over to the chaplain. "Let me see now," said the chaplain, "convict number eighty-seven. We number them by their cells, Mrs. Cornboise. That will be in the other wing. I'm afraid we have quite a long walk."

Some ten minutes previously Colin Briarley had been marched back to his cell for making noise. It was four days now since he had been back to prison. That part of the program had gone without a hitch. But what of Mrs. Cornboise?

Suddenly he started—but he did not know what it was that startled him. His ears had already become so attuned to every sound of the prison that the same sounds day after day, came back to him—that at first he knew no more than that there was some unusual sound.

Unusual footsteps. Then he could have sworn it—a woman's voice. The footsteps had stopped at the cross of the corridors where the warden stood on duty. They were approaching. Then he knew that his own door was about to be opened.

Colin Briarley in a prison cell was not the same as Colin Briarley at large—a spirited young man who could put a bold face on any emergency. The man in the cell was the prey of a gnawing fear, not indeed for his own skin, but fear none the less. It would be, he supposed, an official from the aerodrome at Croydon to identify him. He turned his back and crouched against the window sill.

"Turn round, eighty-seven," rasped the voice of the warden. "There's a lady here who wants to see you."

Colin sprang round and faced Mrs. Cornboise. On her face was a half smile, which vanished as she looked hard at him.

"Good morning, Mr. Briarley," said Mrs. Cornboise, in a businesslike tone. "Do you wish to hear his voice?" asked the chaplain in a discreet undertone. "If you do, I will order him to speak."

"Yes, please," she answered the chaplain. "Eighty-seven—this lady spoke to you. It would be more manly to make an answer."

"I'm sorry, sir," said Colin to the parade like voice in a prisoner address an officer. "Will you please tell me what you wish me to say to the lady?"

"That's enough, thank you," said Mrs. Cornboise to the chaplain and turned away.

BY MARY MEADE.

The annual turkey trot is on—with the turkey sure to be the loser! There's so little that hasn't been said and re-said about stuffings for His Majesty that it's almost a presumption to offer a new one. But we're about to do so. The recipe:

PEANUT DRESSING FOR THANKSGIVING TURKEY.

2 cups shelled, roasted peanuts
73 butter crackers, toasted and finely crushed
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine.
3 cups hot milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
2 egg yolks, beaten

Run the peanuts through the food chopper. Add the hot milk to the cracker crumbs and, when all has been absorbed, add the peanuts and other ingredients. Blend well. This will fill a medium small turkey. For a large one, double the ingredients.

To surround the peanut-stuffed turkey with flankings which will complement its flavors without stuffing the guests is a problem for a juggler. Countless menus could be offered. I like this one best:

THANKSGIVING DINNER.

CRANBERRY PIE

30 graham wafers
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup cranberries
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup water

Crush the graham wafers into fine crumbs. Add the butter, sugar, and water, blending thoroughly. Pat the mixture against the bottom and sides of a well greased pie pan. Bake the crust in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for about ten minutes. Brush it over with the slightly beaten egg white, then fill with the following:

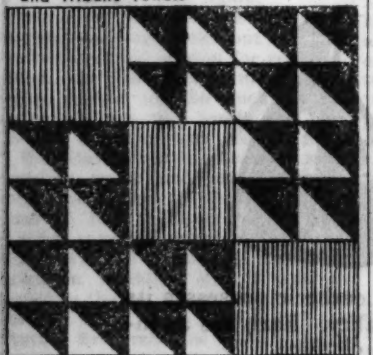

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup butter
1/2 cup cranberries
1/2 cup cornstarch
1/2 cup water

Boil together the sugar and the cup of water for 5 minutes, add the cleaned cranberries and cook until all have popped their jackets. In the meantime, make a paste of the cornstarch and the tablespoon of water. Add this carefully to the berries, stirring steadily. Cook for 3 minutes, still stirring. Pour the filling into the baked graham crust and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for 20 minutes.

Cowl and Plaits Flattering

WOMAN'S AND MISS' TUNIC DRESS.

This adorable dress looks like an expensive model, yet it is one that can be made by any home needleworker. This dress has the soft, flattering cowl neck, and a most attractive skirt arrangement with plaits left in at the sides, and the tunic follows the skirt by being left open from the bottom. The original dress was made of bottle green wool crepe with soft gold pattern. Silk crepe or velvet also will be charming for afternoon wear.

The pattern, No. 2561, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Let Your Children Know You Love Them Despite Warnings

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing" is true of child training as of other kinds of knowledge. It is especially true where the question of love and demonstrativeness—for of course they're not identical—come in. Mothers hear a little, read a little more of certain psychologists, and then fear the signs of affection between mother and child.

A little dash of Freud—another of Watson—and they begin to imagine that "fixations" and "complexes" lie back of the free and warm and natural expression of wholesome love that they feel toward their child and that their child feels toward them. "Perhaps," they think, "a pat on the head or a shake of the hand at partings or bedtime is enough." Personally, I think such restraint might be quite as bad, quite as starving and inhibiting, as too extravagant a show of affection.

To be sure there are kinds and degrees of demonstrativeness that are not wholesome—ties that are made too strong—mother love that becomes, as some one so aptly put it, "another love." But these extremes or abnormalities are the exception.

A kiss, a hug, a squeeze of the hand, a head leaned against a shoulder, or a good night cuddle is nothing to be afraid of. With the child it's the moment's need—but also over in a moment. Just observe that for yourself. Don't be afraid to let your children see that you love them.

Society Starts Early Trek to Winter Homes

Mrs. George A. McKinlock Ready to Go South.

unusual cactus garden. They are planning to leave their Hinsdale home and go to Phoenix shortly. Mrs. George Floyd of Riverside has been at her home in Arcadia for several weeks, but she is leaving there soon for a two months' visit in the Philippines, where her son, Capt. Floyd, is stationed. She will be accompanied by Mary Newhall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Newhall of Winnetka. Mrs. Walter Baldwin of Highland Park again is occupying her home on Lafayette road in Arcadia after an interesting summer in Iceland and Russia.

The George Gillespies' dude ranch, El Rancho Grande, promises to be a popular place this winter, for the former Katherine Thorne's Chicago relatives and friends, and all who have visited it are enthusiastic about the beauties of the surrounding country, especially Superior mountain. The ranch is about thirty miles from Phoenix. Mrs. Laura Thorne and Miss Ursula Cull of England, who spent the summer with Miss Thorne and her parents, the Robert J. Thornes, in Lake Forest, are with the Gillespies now.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick Postpones Departure.

Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick is hoping that she will be able to go to Florida this winter, but the estate of her late husband will not be settled until February, so she may not be able to leave Chicago until then, and according to present plans she will go abroad at that time. Mrs. McCormick is not expecting any of her sons to come to Chicago this winter, for Alister and his wife and little son and daughter will spend the winter in their Santa Barbara home; Edward and his wife and sons are at their home in England, and Leander and his wife have taken a house in the Austrian Tyrol for the early winter. Later they will go to Egypt for a visit with an uncle of Mrs. McCormick's.

Col. George T. Langhorne, president of the American League of China, is arriving at home from an eastern trip this morning, so he will be here for the meeting the organization will hold this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Chinese collections of the Field museum. The members will meet in tribute to the late Berthold Laufer, who was curator of anthropology at the museum and one of the greatest authorities in America on Asiatic history and ethnology. Dr. Francis Chomlin Weil, president of Hua Chung college, Wuchang, will speak on "Confucianism" at the meeting.

Mrs. Langhorne preceded Col. Langhorne home by two days.

Mirjane Strong Weds Easterner Tomorrow.

Donald Kemmerer and his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Kemmerer of Princeton, N. J., arrived in Highland Park yesterday for the wedding of Mirjane Strong, daughter of the William Gillespies, which will take place tomorrow afternoon. The service will be read in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends at 4 o'clock in the Strong's living room by the Rev. Samuel Chiles, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. A large reception will follow at 5 o'clock. Mr. Kemmerer and his bride will go directly to Bethlehem, Pa., where Mr. Kemmerer is teaching in Lehigh university. Their wedding trip will be delayed until the first of the holidays, when they will go to Bermuda.

Maj. and Mrs. Henry Hays Moore of Portland, Ore., announced the engagement of their daughter, Peggy, to Walter Hays Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Brown Wilson of 3156 Sheridan road, at a tea yesterday afternoon in their home. Maj. and Mrs. Moore lived in Chicago until last year.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SOME REMARKS ON REBIDDING.

When you have opened the bidding with a hand containing two five card suits and your partner's response is one so trump it is a purely automatic procedure for you to bid your second suit seeking a preference. Necessarily you have a singleton and a doubleton, or you may have a void suit, and it is essential to sign off in a suit and not in no trumps. Only if your partner is strong enough to take you to three no trumps should you allow a no trump contract to stand.

This Bidding Is Not the Prelude to a Real Mistake.

You will not land in a serious mischief even if your partner is very weak. The very fact that his response was a no trump indicates that his distribution is not extremely uneven. The less support he has for your first suit the more he will have for your second suit. If this is not the case, surely his hand contained the material for a suit response on the first round. If over your second suit he bids two no trumps, this is a strong bid showing at least double stoppers in the unbid suits, so that three no trumps will be a contract of which you need not be afraid. It may fail, but there will be no disaster, and a double is very unlikely.

The Real Misdis

occur when both partners have two-suiters, but complaining all four suits, so that no fit exists, either in a suit or in no trumps. The opponents hold similar hands, and the situation is that whoever opens the bidding becomes the victim. One cannot guard infallibly against being punished with trap hands of this sort, but at least the Sims opening bidding requirements help one to keep out of the auction on many such occasions; if one does have to be the cost, the sign-off procedure, which I have described in great detail, keeps the bidding low until a fit has been found. When there is no fit the bidding should not get beyond two-odd or occasionally three-odd when a six card unit is held. About three weeks ago I gave an actual tournament hand where a five diamond contract was defeated 2,000 points. The partnership had bid all four suits, with good biddable five or six card holdings in each of them. This hand illustrates my point so perfectly that I need only refer you back to it. Plainly, had the West hand's composition been such as to require a first response of one no trump no real disaster could have occurred.

The No Trump Response Has a Meaning.

I wish to make clear an important point. The responding hand is at liberty to pass a bid of one. I do not approve of giving a chance with an almost blank hand, a hand with no resources. Your response of one no trump should mean this: "Partner, I am keeping the bidding open for you because game is possible though you opened with a bid of only one. I am giving you a chance; I cannot respond with a one-over-one, nor have I a suit of lower rank than yours that I care to bid; certainly, therefore, not a biddable six card suit. If your hand is not unusually strong, let us try to sign off at our safest low contract. In that case do not expect my hand to do more than stop some gap in the play or to select the better suit for trumps if you ask me for a preference. My hand is not a complete misfit for any two suits, though it may be for your first suit. However, should your strength be such that you can drive the bidding up to a game contract in no trumps, I believe that you will be able to get into my hand twice in the course of the play. To bid for game despite my sign-offs, you must hold so many high cards that they will promote my few meager honors to trick winners to this extent, unless the enemy's few high cards are too strong for me."

And you men confronted with the gift problem for your dream princess won't go wrong on this choice. The subtle flattery of presenting her with a king so completely feminine and so ultramodern won't get her, you can be sure. Play Santa Claus with one of these and your rival will be as dumb as a fish.

Adviser Predicts Anita Louise Will Make History with Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Keep an eye on that little Anita Louise girl of the movies. She's going to make beauty history—or my guess is all wrong. There's something there now on which to build a lasting beauty fame. How Gainsborough could have used her for one of his lovely portraits! Or Kucharski who did the lovely Countess Potocka. Or Romney! But since these gentlemen saw fit to pass on centuries before Anita Louise thought about getting herself born, it fell to one Pierre Tartous, who paints in the Gainsborough manner, to immortalize the young person on canvas.

She's really a beauty, this comparatively new screen personality. Any way, new to me, although she tells me she's been in the movies thirteen years, which makes her but eighteen today, since she began at five. Her face is beautifully shaped, her nose one of those rare bits of sculpture one sees too infrequently. Her sunny locks are golden fleece, as a poet might say. She's springtime, with its sprays of apple blossom, honeysuckle, golden trumpeted daffodils. In the yellow Chinese or Japanese outfit in which I saw her, her quick, light, childlike freedom of movement and her lovely coloring make one think of darning sunbeams. Anyway, she's a perfect little beauty and after this rays, if I hear of her getting herself mixed up in any Hollywood scandal, I'll go right out there and spank her good and properly. She's the kind one doesn't want smudged even ever so little.

She has something besides looks, too, under that dashing hair. First, a great generosity about the looks of other girls, an intelligent trait, by the way. She thinks Loretta Young in rags and tatters would still be the loveliest looking girl in the world, that Dolores Del Rio is gorgeous. She named others for this and that charm and grace or beauty. Anita is five feet three and a half, almost four inches. Her job is keeping on weight, which means egg-nogs daily. She uses no powder whatever, and that's news. She never has used powder. A little lip rouge, not too dark. Check rouge she doesn't need. Turquoise for evening is her favorite color. She showed me a "personal appearance" ensemble, a white lamé frock cut with which she wears a turquoise velvet coat.

INSTANT FRESHNESS AND CHARM

ALL FEATURE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Why THOUSANDS CHEER

Because the smart felt hat shown—one of several created for Dorothy Stone, now playing in "As Thousands Cheer"—may be duplicated in Carson's Millinery Section for only $3.95.

Miss Dorothy Stone, one of the starred members of the revue, "As Thousands Cheer," now playing in Chicago, looks as chic and charming in tailored street clothes (witness the photograph shown above) as she does in the glamorous costumes in which we see her behind the footlights.

Perhaps it is because she has given such care and thought to the selection of her hat—having it especially designed for her, along with several others of the same type. Trust her to have each one exactly right—as to proportions, material and detail.

Carson's Millinery Section has made it possible for thousands of Chicago women to take advantage of the taste and skill and care that have gone into the designing of these hats for Miss Stone—by presenting hats exactly like them right here in the Fifth Floor Hat Sections.

The style pictured is a definitely tailored type, but its dressy little details, its smart "cut-cone" crown, and the very dashing slant of its brim counteract any tendency toward severity. It is fashioned of fine fur felt, and is available in a varied assortment of colors including, of course, brown and black. This hat, as well as those in the group which are not shown, may be chosen in a wide range of headsizes. $3.95.

Advice to the Work-Worn

Carson's New Column Makes Its Bow

Carson's introduces a new "column" created to lessen the "work and worry" of housekeeping! Perhaps your own Thanksgiving problems may be solved with the utensils we present in the "answers" below.

MRS. A. R.—Of course you'll have the same dry-turkey trouble this year. With a million and one things to do it's easy to forget the basting. Get a self-basting aluminum roaster; we have one for $3.95 that will hold any "bird" up to 15 pounds, and it has a "trivet-tray" that actually makes it a pleasure to lift said bird up and out of the roaster. Other roasters range from $1.75 to $8.95.

MRS. B. M.—It's your coffee pot "brewing" all your trouble and it behooves you to give friend husband some good "drip" coffee to keep him in an amiable mood this Thanksgiving Day. We've a drip-coffee pot for $1.95 that will do it. It is ivory ware and has an embossed fruit design bound to be admired along with the coffee.

MRS. A. M.—Don't let "what to do" bother you! Put a bowl or two of nuts near the fireplace, hand out some nutcrackers and "picks" and see what happens! Midst much cracking of nuts there'll be much "cracking wise" and one and all will have a grand time. 7-piece "sets" for 35c.

MRS. B. X.—Just mark our word, give the lord-and-master a decent carving set and he'll do a carving job that will be a credit to the family. We've 3-piece sets anywhere from $3.50 up to $9.50.

MRS. R. O.—They'll swear food will never again interest them! But along about "that time" they again get a "hungry look" and then it's time to give them waffles. Everybody likes them, and they're quick and easy and filling! We've a 3-piece set of tray, two pitchers with covers, for $1.75. Housewares Section, Seventh Floor.

Thanksgiving Table Celebrities

Stop over at Carson's

THANKSGIVING candies, plum puddings, fruit cakes, and various other table celebrities stop over in Carson's First Floor Candy Shop before going on to Thanksgiving dinners. Let them give an account of themselves and their plans.

DUNDEE Fruit Cake speaks first with a broad English accent, "I came all the way from England to Carson's. Sugar and spice and everything nice, that's what I am made of." 2 lbs., $2.

CARSONIA Plum Pudding answers, "I came from England, too, all done up in a smart crock. I am French on my mother's side (French cognac flavored) and Jamaican on my father's side (Jamaica rum flavored)." 1 lb., $1. 2 lbs., $1.75.

CARSONIA Coffee—"Even though I am an 'old-timer' and used every day in the year. I am always in demand on Thanksgiving, because my flavor is so fine. As fresh when you get me as the day I was packed—thanks to my one pound vacuum tins." 3 (1-lb.) tins, $1.

CARSONIA Jams and Jellies, Preserves, and Relishes—"This will be our first Thanksgiving dinner, but our name has made an 'in' for us at all Thanksgiving tables. We come to you plaid topped, in attractive glass jars." 4 jars for 95c.

CARSON Candy—"I am taken as a gift to the hostess, because in my box I have candy for every sweet tooth—chocolates, bon bons, crisp nuts, raisins, caramels, and nougats." 2 lbs., $1.

CHOCOLATE and Gum Drop Turkeys—"We serve a double purpose. We add a festive Thanksgiving air, and we're good to eat. We're especially welcome when children are present." Gum Drop Turkeys, 15c. Chocolate Turkeys, 5c, 10c, 35c.

International Stock Show and Horse Show Succeed World's Fair as City's Major Attractions

Chicago became "exposition-minded" during the "Century of Progress," and many of its citizens have felt a definite lack in their lives since the closing of that great Fair.

Here comes a worthy successor to fill the gap for a time—and one that has earned a reputation as a "great show" in years past—the International Stock Show and Horse Show.

It is better than ever this year, and that's an extraordinary achievement when you consider that it has risen from the ashes of last summer's disastrous fire.

Be sure not to miss it. It's the sort of show that the whole family can enjoy—the kind that you can visit not once, but repeatedly, with increasing interest each time. And, remember, it's for one week—December 1 to 8.

Carson's Opens an Anti-Freeze Campaign Today

Warm Woolies Will Help You To Weather the Winter

There are more ways than one to escape zero temperatures and blizzards. Our favorite is a lazy southern trip to sun-drenched beaches and palm-fringed shores. But if you can't take that way out (we can't either) we suggest you join Carson's Anti-Freeze Campaign. Headquarters are on the third floor in the Knit Underwear Section. Because we are charter members we feel qualified to tell you about things. So listen carefully, all you shivering damsels, and take heed to what we say!

Wear Woolies Underneath

All kinds of marvelous new Knit undies have come to town. Many of them came all the way from Europe, where generations of interested workers have planned and schemed and devised garments to defy winter's fury.

For only $2.95 each you may have over-the-knee tights of 100% wool. And for just $3.50 each are ingenious all wool garments, calmly called chest protectors and abdominal bands. Laugh if you please, they do the trick. An all wool union suit is fitted so perfectly only an X-ray machine could prove you had on woolies. It is $3.95. Separate vests and tights, all wool of course, are $2.95 each. They're worn by young and old alike so don't let any one tell you you're old-womanish if you choose to be comfy.

About Knee Muffs

To our mind knee muffs are as important a contribution to this age as radios. Particularly some in all wool at $1.95 a pair.

Aren't you warmer already just reading about these undies? Now try them out and we guarantee you'll snap your fingers and pooh-pooh at winter the whole season long.

Becky Lee and a Princess Come to Chicago Town

Grown-up ladies may have their Chanel or Patou models, but smart little American girls follow the styles set by little English Princess Elizabeth. The smallest girl in the photograph wears a princess frock of gay plaid that comes in red or blue for 3 to 6's and is made only for Carson's. Large pearl buttons march from the deep hem to the top of the scalloped white pique collar. $2.45. The Becky Lee frock on the taller child is an adorable button-on model, beloved by mothers and daughters alike, because it always looks so nice and is so simple to get in and out of. The sheer plaid top is a bright color accent for the dark broadcloth skirt. A "Carson's Own" dress for little girls from 3 to 6 years old. $2.45. Both in the Baby Shop on the Third Floor.

Today's Pattern A Tunic Frock

This striking tunic frock is suggested by McCall Patterns for the Thanksgiving holiday. Particularly smart in a crease weave crepe at $2 a yard. The pattern—number 8074—sizes 12 to 20, is 50c. In Carson's Pattern Section, Second Floor.

JUST EXACTLY 60 ONE-OF-A-KIND Fur Collars Because of a Special Purchase $7.50 $12.50 $17.50

French beaver*, lapin*, caracul, raccoon, kit fox, wolf, and skunk are only a few of the beautiful furs in black, brown, and beige. A timely value that you simply can't afford to miss—$7.50, $12.50, $17.50 each, according to kind. *Dyed Rabbit.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
The world champion Blackhawks played right up to their title before 10,000 at Chicago Stadium last night as they went about the thrilling business of administering a 4 to 0 licking to the ever belligerent Boston Bruins. It was the second shut out rung up by the Hawks in two games and those Hawk friends who went home blue from the Chicago opener last Sunday again are hearing the birds sing so sweet, so sweet.

There was everything that a dyed in the wool hockey fan likes; a fist fight, a rush on the referee, a goal out of a melle, a bullet goal from a well planned pass, and follow up goal from a rebound off the goalie's boots, and to cap it off, one of those solo flights down the ice where the goalie just waits alone and hopes he can guess where the enemy is going to shoot.

Fight Breaks Out.
There was no scoring in the first period, but there was a fist fight, with one of the principals, Eddie Shore, a gent you'd think had had his fill of fistfights. He and Cook squared off in front of the Boston cage as the play swept to the other end of the rink. The pair drew major penalties a few seconds before the opening period ended.

As the players left the ice for the first intermission Goale Thompson and Nels Stewart rushed Referee Cameron and spun him around before all the customers. He told Stewart he would get 10 minutes for misconduct. The specialized nature of Thompson's work spared him.

Three in Penalty Box.
So, as the second period started, Shore, Cook, and Stewart were in the penalty box, though Stewart was allowed a substitute. Then they were joined by Clapper, who was put off for charging Johnny Gottselig. The Hawks looked a terrific offensive but they couldn't break through until Siebert was penalized for clashing just as Cook and Shore returned to the ice.

With Moranz, Paul Thompson, March, Cook and Coulter all battling off Tiny Thompson's boots, Paul Thompson and March found a chance to lay it in scoring position and Cook slapped it home for goal No. 2. The time was 4:35.

Hawks Score Again.
The second period was a handsome affair for exciting hockey but the lads reserved the final session for real production. In the seventh minute McAdams picked up the puck on the left boards two feet inside the blue line and three or four feet in front of the Hawk bench. Donnie, with exceeding grace and skill, slid the rubber obliquely to Gottselig, stationed 15 feet in front of the nets with the cage somewhat to his right. Johnny whizzed one so fast that Tiny Thompson couldn't see it and it tangled in the net for goal No. 3. The time was 6:40.

Some five minutes later Howie Moranz swooped past the cage and whanged one against Tiny Thompson's shin. Mueh March was following Howie a mile a minute and as the disc dropped off a foot from Tiny's toes March slapped it in for goal No. 3. The time was 12:30.

Cook Scores Unassisted.
The Bruins, to avoid a shutout, in the last five minutes moved the men into the Hawk defense zone and the massed skaters were battling the puck right merrily when suddenly the rubber hit Cook's torso and bounded toward his own blue line. Tommy saw the thing and it was the only object in the vast space between him and Goale Thompson.

Tommy started for the goal, crossing mid-ice and going into the Bruin zone without the least opposition. The goal was not important, but the situation is a trying one for a goalie. Tiny started his highland fling as Tommy approached him, but Tommy outswung and shoved him goal No. 4. A few minutes before the close of the game Gottselig was slashed over the left eye by Tony Savage's stick. He had to be assisted from the rink. Three stitches were taken and Johnny soon blossomed a shiner, but will go with the team to Boston, where the Bruins will be met again tomorrow night.

MINNESOTA CAN THANK 3 TEAMS AS AIDS TO TITLE

Indiana Ranks First for Victory Over Purdue.
Minnesota players, undisputed winners of the Western conference football championship, victorious in eight games, should take time today, if they haven't already, to express sincere thanks to Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin for making possible the Gophers' sole possession of first place. Illinois gave Ohio State its only defeat, 14 to 12; Wisconsin was the only eleven to whip Illinois, and last Saturday Indiana prevented Purdue from claiming any share of Minnesota's laurels by winning decisively from the Bollweavers, 17 to 6.

And while in the mood, Minnesota might write congratulatory letters to the many elevens throughout the nation which have gradually depleted the list of undefeated and untied major teams until today only the University of Alabama can rival Minnesota's bid for national recognition.

Rice Gets First Beating.
First, of course, the Gophers should commend Texas Christian for its 7 to 2 victory Saturday over Rice Institute, the first defeat for the Owls this fall.

Minnesota has reason to be proud of its 1934 eleven, which admittedly is its strongest offensive team in 30 years. It got in all time. No one could ask more than that a team win all of its games, but Minnesota, by strange fortune, finds the spotlight centered on it more intensely because of the misfortunes of other splendid teams which faltered once along the championship pathway.

Minnesota has beaten Pittsburgh (13 to 7), the only team to accomplish this feat.

Minnesota owns a 20 to 0 victory over Nebraska which is tied in the current race for the Big Six title. Minnesota has scored at least 30 points in each of its conference games.

Even With Old Rivals.
Minnesota has won possession of the little brown jug by smashing Michigan, 24 to 0, for the first victory over the Wolverines at Minneapolis since 1892.

Minnesota has defeated Wisconsin, 24 to 0, a victory nearly as sweet as the triumph over Michigan.

And Minnesota has scored 27 points to opponents' 38.

Capt. Pug Lund, passer, runner, and kicker, has been the foundation of Minnesota's attack for three years.

His value was demonstrated Saturday at Madison when after two touchdowns by Lund in 10 minutes, one a 60 yard dash, Lund was injured.

Without Glenn Seidel, regular quarterback who did not play at all because of injury, Minnesota continued in form. Without Lund the attack collapsed. While Minnesota scored three more times in the closing period, the result that Minnesota's performance as a team was even greater than that of any individual with the exception of Lund.

In a summary of the conference season now ended the following generalizations might be made:

Ohio State, despite its one point defeat by Illinois, probably is the second strongest team. The Buckeyes matched Minnesota in comparative scores against four foes, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, and Chicago. Saturday the Buckeyes defeated Iowa 40 to 7, Ohio's defeat of Colgate was a prime contribution to Big Ten inter-sectional supremacy. Many will rate Ohio State equal to Minnesota.

Illinois, defeated only by Wisconsin, can be rated as the team which accomplished the most in view of available material. Illinois' victory over Army was an inter-sectional highlight.

Maroons' Schedule Toughest.
Chicago, with a six game schedule which pitted it against Minnesota, Ohio State, Purdue, Illinois (the four best teams) ranks next to Illinois in this classification. Most important was its victory over Michigan, not only because of the size of the score,

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.
(Copyright, 1934, by The Chicago Tribune.)
NOTRE DAME and Army pay a flat sum of $35,000 as rental for Yankee stadium. . . . The ball park also has the concession privileges, which should amount to at least $10,000 for a crowd of 80,000. . . . At one time the park received 25 per cent of the receipts. . . . If this arrangement had been in effect Saturday the rental would have amounted to $85,000. . . . Certain major league clubs would be tickled to have as a season's profit the sum Col. Jake Ruppert got from this one football game.

One of the last spectators to reach the stadium was Al Smith. . . . He came in during the third quarter and took a seat in the center of the Notre Dame section. . . . He explained that he became tired of listening to the game over the "radio" and decided to see it for himself. . . . Neither the players nor the crowd had a word of adverse comment about the officiating, which was handled by four Western conference men.

Prof. Frank Dickinson of Illinois, whose rating system divided the Big Ten championship between Minnesota and Illinois with 20 points each, says Notre Dame would have won the title had it been a member of the conference. . . . According to the Dickinson system, the Irish defeated one 30 point team, Purdue, and two 20 point teams, Northwestern and Wisconsin.

A scout of this department visited the shipping clerk in the bat factory at Louisville and found that Babe Herman, the late Cub, was the largest purchaser of bats among Chicago players. . . . Babe bought 88 last season.

On this basis Babe made 1.65 hits per bat and he drove in exactly one run for every bat. . . . There's a fallacy in these figures, however, for most of Babe's bats were broken by Billy Herman. . . . Lester Stodden, who will begin his professional barnstorming tour in New York Jan. 5, will receive 12 1/2 per cent of the receipts. . . . He will be on the road more than four months.

Lou Comiskey, whose cigar bit used to be $100 or more a month, has switched from his El Stencho Turkish brand to a pipe which he lovingly calls El Stinko. . . . There probably is an explanation, but President William Harridge of the American league and his right hand man, Henry Edwards, were the only men at the minor league meeting wearing Derby hats.

Gig Rooney, member of Art Lasky's managerial board, took a plunge in Lake Michigan at the foot of Belmont avenue yesterday before leaving for Los Angeles. . . . Mr. Rooney is 49 years old and the temperature was 35. . . . Matt Walsh, sophomore center alternating with Ivan Blackmer on the Iowa varsity basketball team, is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds.

Every member of the Chicago Bears is required to submit a written report to Coach George Halas on the play of the man opposed to him in league games. . . . This information then is used in preparing an attack and defense for the club the next time it meets the same foe. . . . Elmer Layden was the first Notre Dame man to reach the dressing room after the Army game. . . . He left the bench 20 seconds before the end so that he would be able to have a word of congratulation for each of the players as they entered their quarters. . . . He was particularly pleased with the all around work of Elmer, Robinson and Schirral and the good generalship of the quarter backs.

Surveying the great crowd that turned out for the 31st meeting of West Point and the Irish, a widely known New York sports writer made this observation: "The Army made Notre Dame and Notre Dame made football."

Ten Years Ago Today—Stanford was definitely chosen to play Notre Dame in the Rose Bowl game. . . . Harry Thomas, Chicago Maroon star back, signed with Racine in the pro league. . . . Rockne and a squad of 33 left for Pittsburgh to meet Carnegie Tech. . . . The Chicago Bears defeated the Cardinals, 21 to 0, for the city pro championship. . . . Frank Lockhart won the 250 mile Ascot auto race at Los Angeles. . . . Battling Siki and Frankie Kearns boxed a ten round draw at Syracuse, N. Y.

Dickinson May Alter System of Rankings

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois, football statistician, is considering an amendment to his rating system which will prevent such a situation as resulted this season when his method rated Minnesota and Illinois as tied for first in the Big Ten.

Minnesota was undefeated, but Illinois had lost one game. Never before had there been two teams with the same number of points but only one of them undefeated. Next year, if the two leading teams again tie in points and only one is undefeated, this team will be ranked first.

The system already provides that an undefeated team shall rank above every team it has defeated, but this rule did not cover the Minnesota-Illinois deadlock, as the Gophers and Illini did not meet each other.

Prof. Dickinson considered the change this fall, but regarded a change during a season unfair to the several high school conferences which were officially following the printed code.

CARNERA BOUT WITH CAMPOLO SET BACK WEEK
BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Primo Carnera's heavyweight bout with Victorio Campolo, originally scheduled for last night, has been postponed one week and will be held next Saturday night.

The bout was postponed so that alterations could be made in the Soccer Stadium independently to increase the seating capacity to 100,000. The alterations took more time than had been anticipated and a week's postponement was decided upon.

Bing Millers Win from Babe Ruths in Japan, 5-1
OSAKA, Japan, Nov. 25.—(UP)—A mixed team of Japanese and American baseball players, led by Bing Miller, defeated a similar team headed by Babe Ruth, 5 to 1, before 30,000 spectators in Koshien stadium today.

The score: . . . 001 200 110-5 10 0
Ruths 000 010 000-1 5 4
Batteries—Brown and Hayes; Aoshiba, Gomez, and Berg.

PACKERS DEFEAT LIONS ON 47 YARD FIELD GOAL, 3-0

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25.—(UP)—Green Bay's Packers today handed the Detroit team a 3 to 0 defeat to break the Lions' winning streak which had run through ten National Professional Football league games. A crowd of 12,000 saw the Lions drop to second place in the western division race. The winning points came on a 47 yard place kick by Clark Hinkle, packer full back, shortly after the fourth period opened. The ball sailed squarely between the uprights, just clearing the crossbar.

Fumbles as well as the packer's defense stopped a brilliant Lion attack in the fourth period. The Lions rushed and passed their way from their own 19 yard line to the packer 17 yard line on four plays in which Dutch Clark and Ernie Clark alternated, but then Caddell fumbled twice and the drive was over.

Lions Miss Two Goals.
The clubs battled each other fairly evenly throughout the game, with the Packers rolling up 14 first downs to 12 for the home team. Green Bay tried three field goals, making good on the most difficult one to carry away victory. The Lions tried two, both long attempts. One sailed between the uprights, but was below the crossbar.

WALSH MAY GET CASEY'S JOB AS HARVARD COACH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25.—A man whom Yale released ten months ago as assistant coach, today seems likely to become the next head coach of football at Harvard. Adam Walsh, who was center and captain of Notre Dame's Four Horsemen team ten years ago, stands out as the probable successor to Eddie Casey as Harvard's chief coach, according to reports circulated on the campus.

Walsh has only two possible rivals for the job. First of these is Wesley Fesler, former Ohio State end, who, for the last two years, has been Crismon end coach. The other is Arnold Horn, the Crismon's head coach during the period from 1926 to 1930.

Casey is said to be through as head coach, though the players themselves are loyal to him. It is reported that Casey will be offered the post of freshman coach.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
The smashing Chicago Bears took undisputed possession of first place in the National Professional Football league yesterday by defeating the Cardinals, 17 to 6, before 13,800 at Wrigley field. It was the Bears' eleventh victory in a row.

Two touchdowns, one in the first period and another in the fourth, and a field goal by Jack Manders while Green Bay was defeating the Detroit Lions left the Bears sole occupants of first place.

The victory, however, may prove the most expensive of the season. Beattie Feathers, star half back and leading ground gainer in the league, was injured early in the first half [he carried the ball only three times, but gained 22 yards] when he was thrown at the sidelines by three Cardinal players. An X-ray plate will be made today to determine the extent of the injury to Feathers' shoulder.

The Bears, of course, hope that Feathers will be ready for the game Thanksgiving day in Detroit.

Bears Go Right to Work.
The Bears marched down the field after the opening kickoff to take a seven point lead, added a field goal by Manders' thirteen yards later, and wound up their scoring in the fourth period with a second touchdown following a poor punt by Doug Russell, Cardinal half back, which gave them the ball on the Chicago 14 yard line.

The Bears' first touchdown was accomplished in four minutes of play after Brumbaugh had returned the opening kickoff 25 yards from the goal line. Ronzani made nine yards in two thrusts. Nagurski got the remaining yard for a first down, and Feathers, taking the ball on the first of his three attempts in the game, went 20 yards around left end to the Cardinals' 45 yard line.

A first down by a yard, and then Ronzani picked up six yards off tackle. After an offside penalty the Bears moved up to the 13 yard line on a triple pass play, in which Molesworth lateraled back to the left side of the field to Ronzani and Ronzani then threw a long forward pass to the extreme right side to Brumbaugh, who was dragged down by Mikulak and Duggins. Molesworth passed over the line to Hewitt, who took the ball in front of Griffith and scored standing up.

Manders Kicks Goal.
An exchange of punts returned the ball to the Bears after the kickoff, and when the Cardinal defense stiffened, Molesworth punted to Sarboe who fumbled on his 19 yard line. Hewitt recovering for the Bears, Nature was stopped, a pass failed and the Bears drew an offside penalty before Manders, with the ball on the 23 yard line, dropped back to the 30 yard line and placed a field goal.

Dave Cook of the Cardinals missed field goals from the 39 and 27 yard lines in the third period. The Cards marched to the Bears' 9 yard line as the period ended. They lost six yards on the next two plays and then Nagurski intercepted a pass and returned to the Bears' 17 yard line.

Kicks Over Griffith's Head.
The Bears chose to pass until Griffith elected to stay up close to cover on passes on third down. Molesworth's punt sailed over Griffith's head and downed fifty-four yards down the field on the Cardinals' 4 yard line. Russell's punt after a pass had failed, went out of bounds on the Cardinals' 14 yard line. Smith threw Nagurski for a six yard loss, after which Nagurski congratulated him and shook his hand. Before the Cardinals had settled back in their positions, Ronzani, on a quick opening play, went 18 yards off tackle to the 2 yard line. Nagurski then punched over the touchdown on three thrusts.

Two plays after the ensuing kickoff Zeller, Bears' guard, intercepted Sarboe's pass on the Cardinals' 37 yard line. Red Grange hurried a pass which was intercepted by Bob Neuman of Illinois Wesleyan, a substitute end, who raced down the right sidelines toward the south goal. Ed Kawal brought Neuman to earth on the 2 yard line after a 66 yard return. Roy Horstmann then went over two plunges for the only Cardinal score.

ROSS LIKELY TO BATTLE JAN. 18

Expect Tony's Manager to Sign with Foley.

Barney Ross most likely will defend his lightweight championship against Tony Canzoneri at Chicago Stadium Jan. 18. This was the indication yesterday after Sam Goldman, Canzoneri's manager, had held several conferences with Promoter Joe Foley. Other confabs will be held during the week, at one of which the promoter expects to obtain Canzoneri's signed contract. Ross already has signed.

Charley Massera of Pittsburgh, Pa., will open workouts this afternoon at Traflet's gymnasium to prepare for a 19 round heavyweight tussle with Joe Louis at the Coliseum Friday. Massera, who lost a disputed decision to Al Ettore at the Stadium last week, will spar two rounds. Massera's defeat has not detracted from the attractiveness of Friday's contest. Charley demonstrated sufficient ability to give Louis his most severe trial as a professional thus far. At the same time the Massera-Ettore fight showed Louis' paragon that Joe has a fine chance to break into the heavyweight elimination competition. Massera is listed among the best heavyweights and if Louis whips him the Detroit boxer will step into the limelight.

Chicago favorites will head boxing shows tonight at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, and Midway arena, 6115 Cottage Grove avenue. Mickey Beal, north side bantamweight, will meet Terry O'Hanlon of Waukegan in one of the three six round bouts at the Midway. The eight round feature attraction at Marigold will pair Geno Salvatore with Fred Chynoweth at 138 pounds.

The Beal-O'Hanlon bout at Midway replaces the scheduled ten round bout between Jimmy Christy and Dave Barry, which was canceled when a sore arm developed by Jimmy during the last day of training failed to respond to treatment. Both O'Hanlon and Beal are important figures in the bantamweight class. O'Hanlon recently scored a victory over Sammy Musko at the Chicago Stadium.

The remainder of the card at Midway arena, which will include a third six rounder, follows:

George Van Der Hagen vs. Johnny Fitzpatrick (6).

Joe Roman vs. Eddie Jackson (4).

Frank Keefe vs. Louis Naeef (4).

The Salvatore-Chynoweth encounter is expected to develop into one of the best ever presented at the north side arena. Salvatore, 1930, 1931, and 1932 Stretcher, Ill. Golden Gloves champion, appears to be the better boxer, but whatever Chynoweth may lack in this respect he makes up in superior punching and ruggedness. Preliminary matches:

Sampy Chivas vs. Le Roy (Salter) Born (6), 136.

Eddie Ward vs. Phil McQuillen (4), 143.

John Mirabel vs. Willie Duda (4), 122.

Mickey O'Shea vs. Eddie Smeal (4), 150.

Art Laskey, heavyweight challenger, who has deserted Minneapolis, Minn., to make his home in Los Angeles, and his return left last night for California pending completion of negotiations for a third bout between Laskey and King Levinsky in Chicago or New York next month at 15 rounds. Laskey won the first and the second was called a draw. Both were at 10 rounds.

Managers of Maurice Laskey and Gig Rooney and Tony Souza, heavyweight, left by train. Art said this mode of traveling was too slow, so he boarded an airplane.

Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight champion, passed through Chicago over the week-end on route from New York to the Pacific coast. Fredrick Chynoweth, ex-Golden Gloves middleweight titleholder, and Oscar Melillo will be included among the notables attending the amateur show tonight at Venetian hall, 130 East Kensington avenue.

The principals in the two ten round bouts at the Arcadia Gardens tomorrow night would be training yesterday afternoon. Art Sykes and Adolph Wiaters met in the first ten rounder and Frank Battaglia faces Karl Ogren in the other.

Champion Max Baer and his heavyweight brother, Buddy Baer, are to depart tomorrow morning to open an exhibition tour somewhere in Iowa tomorrow night. The pair includes Manager Anell Hoffman and Frank Percassi, tour manager. It will return to the loop Dec. 1 and then on Dec. 3 the group will go to Minneapolis, where Buddy is slated to fight Bob Cook.

WHO'S CHAMPION? MISSOURI VALLEY FANS PUZZLED

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 25.—(P)—The question of who is champion batted up tonight to puzzle Missouri Valley conference football fans. With all the conference games over, the organization was without a clear-cut title holder, and the problem probably will go unanswered until the meeting of league officials at Kansas City Dec. 8 and 9.

Drake muddled the championship award yesterday by defeating Creighton, 6 to 0. Creighton had won two conference games and another victory would have given them an undisputed title. The Omaha team, however, undoubtedly will claim the title, contending that Washington, victor in its only conference game, cannot be awarded the championship on the strength of one victory.

Swarthmore Eleven Elects James McCormack Captain

Swarthmore, Pa., Nov. 25.—(P)—James F. McCormack of Sheboygan, Wis., today was elected captain of the 1935 Swarthmore college football team. McCormack, a junior at the college, also plays on the lacrosse team.

27 to 0, but because it was Michigan's first conference licking.

Purdue was the most successful in rallying after two nonconference defeats by Rice and Notre Dame until the final game. Purdue covered its defensive weakness with a brilliant attack and brought home an intercollegiate victory of importance from Fordham.

Indiana's high lights were the tie with Temple and the victory over Purdue.

Iowa Hit by Injuries.

Iowa suffered more major injuries to key players than any conference eleven, injuries which prevented the Hawkeyes from at least keeping several scores to smaller proportions.

Wisconsin and Northwestern persisted in face of defeat to finish with two conference victories each. The Badgers' 7 to 3 triumph over Illinois was a major upset of the season.

Michigan, defeated in seven games, six of them against Big Ten teams, had its most disastrous season in history, but the Wolverine alumni were as consolate of the team and its coaches in defeat as they had been proud during the four years when Michigan had won or shared in the championship. Michigan's greatest feat was its first half scoreless tie against Minnesota.

Notre Dame on Way Back

Notre Dame, by its 12 to 6 victory over Army Saturday, its first great victory of the year, definitely has proved it on the way back to gridiron supremacy.

Stanford finished its schedule undefeated by whipping California, 9 to 7, Saturday. It is winner of the Pacific coast title. However, Santa Clara tied Stanford in a nonconference game, 7 to 7.

Alabama, undefeated in eight games, finishes its schedule Thursday against Vanderbilt. It is the south's best team, although it may have to share the conference title.

Yale, by beating Harvard Saturday, 14 to 0, has won the championship of the Big Three. Pittsburgh probably is the strongest eastern eleven, with Colgate a likely runner-up.

MONARCHS WIN 4 GAMES; KEEP BOWLING LEAD

The Monarch Beers retained their one game lead over the Pabst Blue Ribbons by winning four games in yesterday's double-header in the Classic Bowling league. The Pabsts came close to dropping two games behind the leaders but were saved by taking their last game with the Pabsters last night on the roll-off after each team had shot 900. Scores of the evening matches:

X-RAY MAY SHOW LUND TO HAVE FRACTURED RIB

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 25.—(P)—Possibility that Pug Lund, captain of the Minnesota football team, may have received a fractured rib in the Wisconsin contest was seen here tonight. Lund was examined at the infirmary at the University of Minnesota today, and X-ray pictures were taken.

NO IRISH LIVING DURING ICE AGE, DIGGERS CLAIM

Find Earliest Relics Date
6,000 Years Ago.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 25.—(AP)—Harvard University archaeologists, digging deep into the soil of old Ireland, have shattered a long-held scientific belief that Paddy's ancestry can be traced back to the ice age, it was disclosed today.

But there is plenty of evidence that inhabitants of the Emerald Isle some 6,000 years ago were typical hatchlings of the stone age.

The present investigations, under Dr. H. O'Neill Hencken, curator of European prehistory at the Peabody Museum, Harvard, are being carried out by H. L. Modjeski Jr., of Harvard, assisted by A. G. Goddard. They have established the belief that Ireland was uninhabited by humans during the ice age.

Divide Relics Found.

Dr. Hencken said all finds in the Free State will go to the National Museum of Ireland, while those found in Northern Ireland will go to the Belfast Municipal Museum and Art Gallery.

Excavations in Glenarm, County Antrim, revealed it was occupied at two separate times, relics of the earlier settlers being found in abundance. Beginning about 4,000 B. C., the coast had gradually risen so that the original beach was left some distance inland. Over a ton of flint tools were sent to Belfast.

An excavation at Cushendun revealed the key of the chronology of the entire Irish stone age as far as is at present known. Prof. Jensen of Copenhagen, who examined the Cushendun site, declared it was one of the most important examples in western Europe of the geology of the time succeeding the ice age.

Bronze Age Burial Mound.

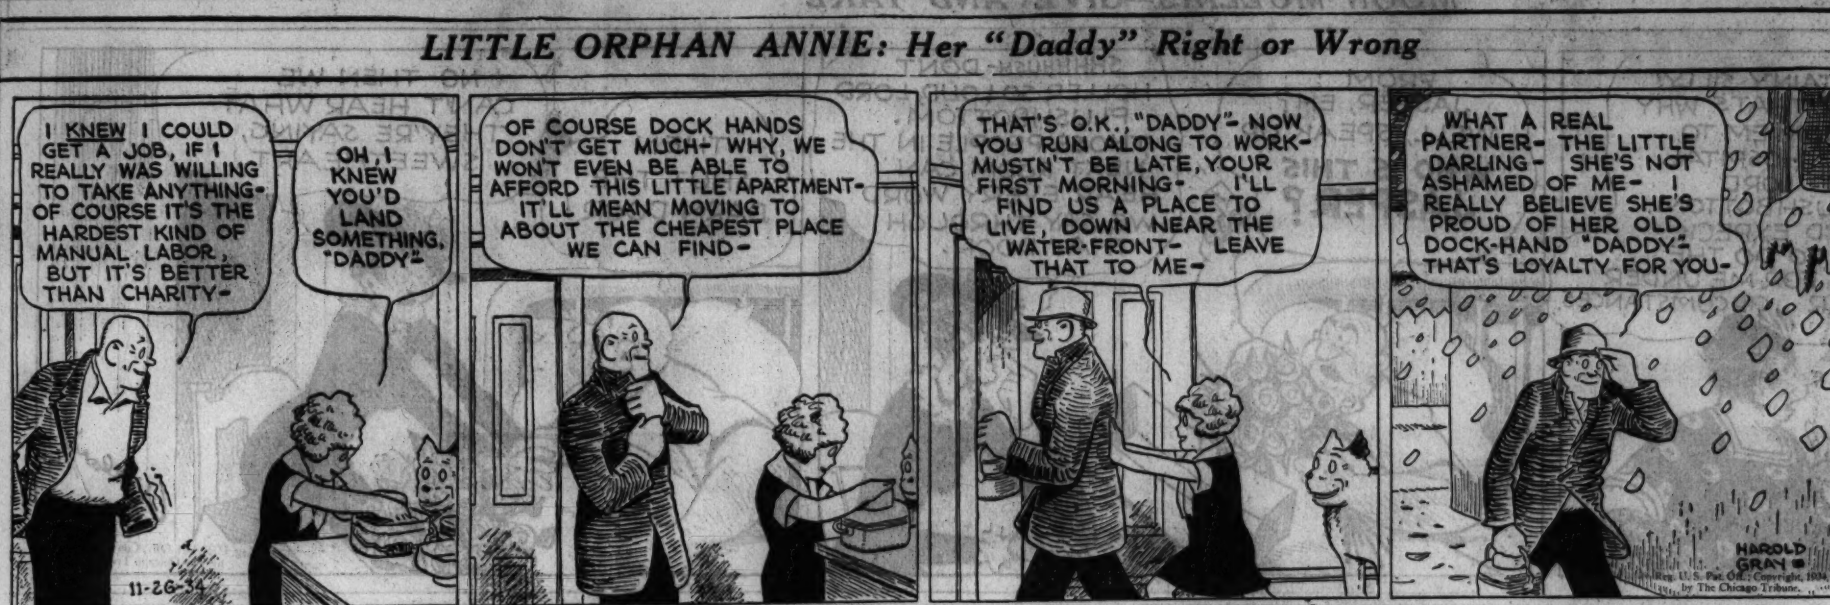

A primitive bronze age, of roughly 1,500 B. C., and a number of flint tools were found at Carrowlough, in County Mayo. A bronze age burial mound was excavated at Portlough in County Clare, where the remains of four skeletons in two coffins and boxes of limestone slabs were found. Altogether, nine skeletons and two cremations were discovered.

At Cahercommann, near Carran, County Clare, the site was found of a stone fort of much the same type as the famous ones in the Aran islands, and proved to date from about the 7th century.

A human skull, a large iron hook, an iron knife, and an interesting brooch of the 9th century, B. C., decorated with enamel and six fantastic animals, were found in the fort.

FORMER POLICE LIEUT. CULLINAN DIES OF STROKE

Timothy Cullinan, a member of the police department for 37 years until his retirement twelve years ago, died of a stroke of the heart at his home, 1326 Berne Avenue, at 10 p. m. Wednesday. He was 76 years old. Lieut. Cullinan suffered a paralytic stroke several days ago. At the time of his retirement he was attached to the Skokie police station. For fifteen years he served at the Chicago Avenue station, aiding in the solution of several black and white murders. He is survived by his wife, Margaret, and a son, Sgt. Thaddeus Cullinan of the Rogers Park station. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday from the chapel at 2187 Irving Park boulevard, with burial at Calvary cemetery.

HUTCHINS GROUP URGES U. S. AID FOREIGN TRADE

Sees Action Step to World Recovery.

New York, Nov. 25.—(P)—The United States must take a vigorous leadership in hastening world-wide recovery by promoting foreign trade, the Hutchins commission on international economic relations recommends in its report, published tomorrow.

"It should," the commission says, "by action as rapid and dramatic as possible, endeavor to reverse the trend toward economic isolation."

To relieve "the distrust and tension now prevailing in the world," the commission proposes drastic changes in American political and economic policy, including:

Repeal of the Johnson act, forbidding loans to countries in default; adherence to the world court; placing of oriental immigration on a non-discriminatory basis; immediate removal of tariffs in all cases in which no serious detriment to unemployment would result; and delegation of power to the tariff commission, by congress, to change tariff rates, subject to congressional veto.

Aid to Agriculture.

Internally, the commission "recognizes the present necessity for fundamental readjustments in American agriculture and feels that the policies now applied by the department of agriculture should be continued long enough to determine their practical value."

The commission—whose full title is the commission of inquiry into national policy in international economic relations—was appointed by the Social Science Research Council with the approval of President Roosevelt. Its chairman is Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago.

Road to Recovery.

In summarizing its recommendations, after a series of hearings throughout the country, the commission sets forth under the heading, "General Objective of American International Economic Policy":

"In order to advance the recovery of the world, the United States must promote the interchange of goods and services among nations. We believe that this policy is indispensable to the recovery and development of the United States."

"The American government must labor to maintain peace. It should do everything in its power to remove impediments to world trade. It should by action as rapid and dramatic as possible endeavor to reverse the trend toward economic isolation. Otherwise, it must be prepared to accept a drastic dislocation and reorganization of industry and agriculture, of capital and labor."

Problem of Idle.

"The principal difficulty in the way of admitting additional imports into this country is the ten million unemployed in the United States. An increase of imports might increase this number temporarily, although some tariffs could be lowered without throwing people out of work; others are ineffective."

"Many nations now feel that they must try to become self-sufficient because of the danger of war. Although the United States cannot engage to guarantee the security of any nation or group of nations, the measures heretofore recommended would do much to contribute to a sense of political security throughout the world."

Bloomington Bank to Pay 7 Pct. Dividend This Week

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 25.—(Special)—A seven per cent dividend will be paid to depositors of the Liberty State bank here during the coming week, William L. O'Connell, receiver, said today. The total payment is to be $35,095.37, in 2,600 checks.

Loans of New Deal Are Close to 7 Billions

(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)
Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(AP)—New Deal money lending reached a point today where nearly seven billion dollars was owed to the federal government.

A survey of the five principal emergency credit agencies showed loans outstanding to public and private enterprise aggregating $6,946,609,897. And only the future could determine definitely when the flow of money would stop.

The amount outstanding is divided as follows:

To the Farm Credit Admin.	$2,715,901,891
Rural Electrification Admin.	2,000,000,000
Reconstruction Finance Corp.	1,280,188,208
Public Works Admin.	750,000,000
Emergency Credit Corp.	200,000,000

As security Uncle Sam held everything from corn in cribs and mortgages on individual homes to bank and railroad bonds. The interest covered a range from four to six per cent, and the obligations spread over terms from six months to 30 years.

Expect to Recover Most.

"The official expectation was that most of the money would be recovered, with interest at least paying the administrative cost of the lending. So far, however, did not include relief expenditures, which the government classes as 'irrecoverable loans,' nor money spent on strictly federal projects designed to create employment."

In the words of W. I. Myers, governor of the Farm Credit administration:

"The true test of any credit system isn't in putting the money out. It's in getting it back."

But the rapidly with which repayments were being made brought expressions of pleasure from some officials charged with placing government loans.

Only recently RFC officials made a public plea to private borrowers not to be in too great a hurry to liquidate their indebtedness to the government. Their point was that the money should be used so as to create more demand for goods and labor.

Gets Back 2 1/2 Billion.

"The RFC had been repaid more than 2 1/2 billion dollars, or almost half of the entire 4 1/2 billion it had loaned outside of advances to government agencies and for relief since it began functioning in February, 1932."

On these transactions it had shown a profit of almost $600,000,000. It expected to do a little better than "break even" in the long run. Its profits came from the difference between the per cent it paid the treasury for money it used and the four to six per cent it charged.

With $1,250,168,206 in outstanding loans on Oct. 31 the RFC still had on hand more than a billion dollars available for legitimate borrowers, including banks, railroads, insurance companies, credit agencies and other financial institutions.

Largest holder of outstanding loans was the Farm Credit administration.

A total of $2,715,901,891 was due it from loans said to agriculture placed through the federal land banks, the land bank commissioner, the federal intermediate credit banks, production credit associations and regional agricultural credit corporations.

CORN NOW KING IN GRAIN MART; CONTINUES RISE

Speculators Switch from Wheat.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Corn today is the undisputed king in the Chicago grain market. Speculators have turned to the corn pit to find the medium for their operations. Comparatively free from foreign influences up to now, corn has attracted much of the trading activity which usually goes into wheat. The latter grain is normally the pacemaker of the market and until recently held its leadership.

How much farther corn can advance is a moot question. Certainly, prevailing prices will encourage the further purchase of foreign corn, but to many grain men this appears to be an insignificant matter.

World Prices Check Wheat.

The present low level of foreign wheat prices is an effective check on wheat in this market. So far, however, the actual and prospective importations of foreign grain have failed to check the rise in domestic prices.

Both Argentine and South African corn are being brought into this country. The supply of Argentine corn available for early shipment is limited. It is estimated around 25,000,000 bushels.

The effect of this is apparent in the futures market, where the July delivery is showing less strength than the December and May contracts on the prospect that the country's supply will be materially augmented by next summer with new Argentine corn.

At the closing prices Saturday corn had advanced 1/4 to 3/4 cents a bushel over the preceding week's final quotations. During the same period wheat futures lost 1/4 to 1 1/2 cents a bushel.

The difference between the price of May corn and wheat has been narrowed to 1 1/2 cents a bushel. A week earlier May wheat commanded a premium of 15 cents over May corn. Earlier this year, on June 16, there was a spread of 43 cents a bushel between the December futures on the two grains.

Hudson Motor to Stress Newspaper Advertising

Newspapers will provide the backbone of the Hudson Motor Car company's advertising campaign in 1935, according to W. A. James, advertising manager. No publicity has been more active in its efforts to keep alive public interest in automobiles than the newspaper industry, James said yesterday. "Editors have realized that in the program for the industry by the progress of the country," he said. "They have recognized the human appeal of this form of transportation and have devoted to it billions of lines of editorial space which has kept it the flame of interest and kept it alive."

October Auto Output Shows Seasonal Loss

Automobile production showed a continued seasonal decline during October with a total of 84,503 passenger cars, a recession of 32 per cent over September's output and 19 per cent below October, last year, according to a report on business conditions just released by the Chicago Federal Reserve bank.

Production of trucks, however, showed an increase with a total of 47,985 vehicles, the review says. Output was 7 per cent higher than in September and compared with only 52 per cent in October, 1933.

White wholesale distribution of automobiles in the middle west showed another sharp drop from the preceding month, retail sales increased contrary to the seasonal trend.

New Car Figures Vary.

New cars sold at wholesale dropped 34 per cent from September and 48 per cent from a year ago. Retail sales gained 4 per cent over September but were 8 per cent under a year ago.

The number of new cars on hand dropped 23 1/2 per cent below that of September, but was 28 per cent greater than in October, 1933. Sales of used cars were considerably higher than in September and also showed improvement over a year ago. The gain in number sold was 16 per cent over the preceding month and 3 1/2 per cent over October, 1933.

Used cars on hand were 85 per cent above the preceding month and 1 per cent more than in the corresponding month last year. The ratio of deferred payment sales to total retail sales reported by dealers was 52 per cent in October, compared with 55 per cent in September and 48 per cent in October, 1933.

Furniture Orders Increase.

Orders booked by furniture manufacturers during October showed a contrary to seasonal gain of 1 per cent over September. An increase of 7 per cent in shipments was slightly higher than the average for the period, although it represented the fourth consecutive monthly gain.

For the first time since June, the review continues, the volume of shipments exceeded that of new orders. Unfilled orders outstanding dropped moderately, amounting to 63 per cent as of Oct. 31, or 10 points below the ratio for the preceding month and 49 per cent in October, compared with 60 per cent in shipments over a year ago.

The first increases to be reported since April and May, respectively. The operating rate rose 8 points to 65 per cent of capacity in October.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING AROUSES CHICAGO'S TRADE FROM LETHARGY

The advent of the Christmas buying season routed Chicago retail trade from its lethargy in the latter part of last week. Decided improvement was reported in the last three days, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The wholesale turnover remained steady. Large distributors find themselves in the position of having filled shelves with holiday goods and it is still too early to push early spring wares. Slower buying in rural areas is also hobbling the lead.

Mail order houses report an excellent holiday season. Utilities maintained an even pace. Hotel and restaurants are experiencing a natural reaction following the close of the Fair, although conventions are helping to some extent.

AIR CONDITIONING FOR VEGETABLES, FRUITS PLANNED

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 25.—Purdue university announced tonight the introduction of practical air conditioning into the marketing of fruits and vegetables.

"Indiana fruits and vegetables," the announcement stated, "will go to market in the future in the same way that seasoned travelers ride in air conditioned Pullmans if the work being done in the experimental pre-cooling of produce by the Purdue university cultural experiment station is adopted by Hoosier growers."

The produce is air conditioned before it is shipped. Quicker delivery to the family table and other savings are claimed. At shipping points the fruit is loaded into produce cars at "field" temperature. The doors are closed. Fans blowing over salted ice then force cold air at 1,750 to 2,000 cubic feet a minute down through the fruit and vegetables, for several hours.

After that the fans are removed, fresh ice put in the cars sealed and started on their rail journey.

Facing Social Insurance Era, Bank Warning

Reabsorption of labor into private industry will mark the first step toward economic security, the Guaranty Trust company of New York says in its current monthly review on business conditions.

"In the achievement of this aim, as well as in the provision of permanently workable plans for future security, the careful and sympathetic cooperation of government, labor, and industry will be required," the survey continues. "It is evident that the question of social insurance is of national economic interest and that it is equally evident that the matter is of vital concern to industry, as it must inevitably bear a large share of the cost under almost any conceivable plan."

Every Employer Affected.

"Every employer of labor will be directly affected by the manner in which the problem is handled in congress and in his own state."

Unemployment, says the bank, has received less legislative attention in the past and yet it has certain financial and psychological ramifications that make it exceedingly difficult to solve in a satisfactory manner.

"No proposal thus far brought forward is in any way designed to deal with prolonged unemployment," it continues.

Doubts Insurance Remedy.

Discussing unemployment in the "survey" sense the review says there is grave doubt as to the fundamental soundness of the idea of applying insurance principles to this field. Both experience and analysis suggest no adequate basis has yet been worked out for the accurate determination of risk, which is a basic necessity in any kind of insurance, it adds.

"European systems of so-called unemployment insurance continue in operation only in the sense that benefits are still being paid," the review says. "They are no longer insurance systems in any significant sense of the term."

Steel Buying Lifts Output to 29% Rate

With iron and steel commitments reaching the highest level since June and operations up 1 point at 29 per cent of production capacity, producers view the markets more cheerfully, according to a review just released by the magazine Steel.

The rise in commitments is attributed principally to larger orders from automobile manufacturers. General consumer stocks also are abnormally low. The Journal says that steelmakers' finishing mills are now absorbing more of their raw steel production.

Further Expansion Forecast.

All districts either showed gains in the operating rate or else held steady. There was an increase of 3 points to 46 per cent at Cleveland, 15 points to 55 per cent in New England, 2 points to 33 per cent in Chicago, and 4 points to 35 per cent at Youngstown.

A survey of the industry shows that Youngstown will start operations this week at the 35 per cent rate, it is reported by the trade. Finishing mill operations are expected to go higher during the week with heavy melting schedules expected. Valley mill executives forecast an upward trend to the end of the year.

Large Orders in Offing.

"Automotive requirements are expected to increase over the next several months, as manufacturers are just beginning to get into production on new models," the review says. "Output of current models last week dropped to 13,000 from 16,000 in each of the preceding two weeks. General Motors now plans early introduction of new Chevrolet, Pontiac, and Oldsmobile. The Ford Motor company has placed heavy orders for foundry equipment including 100 molding machines.

Shops awarded last week are placed at $3,355 tons, while the magazine states that specifications are expected shortly for 8,000 tons to build an addition to the Liberty of Congress.

Among steel orders announced, Lehigh Valley for 200 gondolas. The Northern Pacific is reported in the market for 24 air conditioned coaches.

N. Y. C. WILL TEST STREAMLINED STEAM ENGINE

Believing that the day of steam transportation is far from being over, F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central Lines, announced yesterday that a streamlined, high-powered steam locomotive for his road has been practically completed and will be given tests early next month.

First tests will be over short stretches of track, but later an experimental run and exhibition tour are planned. Practically the entire engine has been enclosed within a metal covering which is finished in gun metal shade of lacquer, with white stripings. Only the driving and trailing wheels have been left partly uncovered to permit of quick access for oiling, etc.

It is expected that streamlining of the engine, which is of the Hudson type, and road test will show an air resistance of 35 or 36 per cent when it is operated at speeds of 70 to 90 miles an hour or more.

Mr. Williamson said his road believes that the new engine will offer the maximum of travel safety and comfort and speed as high as most passenger cars to travel. However, it is watching the operation of streamlined trains using other forms of power.

SUN NOW SHINES MORE BRIGHTLY IN WALL STREET

Share Prices Show Improvement.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, Nov. 25.—The sun is shining faintly in Wall Street again. The stock market, after backing and filling for the better part of a month, suddenly bucked up late last week and went bumping up to the so-called resistance level it established last June and duplicated in July. The industrial group succeeded in driving through the level, many mediums of the division selling to the best prices of the year. The group, as a whole, closed out the week-end session yesterday a good fifteen points above its midsummer low.

Activity picked up with a bound on the rally. Friday's turnover running to 1,130,491 shares and that of yesterday's two hour trading frame falling out around 1,190,000, an increase of something like 33 per cent on the late preceding daily averages.

Gossip More Cheerful.

Board room gossip, which had been heavily surcharged with growing pessimism, gave way to a tone of conservative optimism in which the customers talk of a possible market movement in the making was not wanting. Traders evinced a fresh interest in the dribbles of trade news which have been coming through of late and showed a disposition to give weight to the strengthening possibilities of the situation rather than upon the bearish phases which have been coming into such prominence here of late.

Much was made of the conservative viewpoint, however, being voiced by trade organizations of national importance and by government bureaus. Brokers agreed that sentiment had definitely turned once more to the constructive side.

Steel Shares Take Lead.

One of the most significant phases of the market upturn from the previous viewpoint was the leadership role assumed by the steel stocks. In view of the fact that the productive activity of the mills is not impressive just now, many observers of "trends and conditions" interpreted the buying in this quarter as evidence that the heavy industries, after their long wait, are about to be rewarded with real business. Talk of improvement in the scrap iron market structure was heard from several responsible sources.

Another market group to make its impression was the tobacco. A suggestion of impending markup in the price of cigarettes, together with statistics indicating an increase in the consumption rate, was the secret of demand for the tobacco shares. Maintenance of the regular dividend rate of American Telephone was an inspiration to the utilities which have been out of favor for so long, what with the threats of rate investigations here and there—and the growing sense of investment competition, and the building issues continued to make capital out of the government's reconstruction and housing programs. Retail sales figures continued to stir the upturn in the hopes for the merchandise stocks.

Several brokers reported a healthy increase in buying orders from abroad, especially for the power and light and railroad shares.

PLAY TO REDUCE N. Y. EXCHANGE SEAT DISCOUNTS

Brokers Seek to Boost Trading Income.

New York, Nov. 25.—(AP)—A nebulous movement to boost brokers' incomes by cutting the number of New York Stock exchange seats is attracting some attention in Wall street. Ever since the collapse of the big bull market in October of 1929 brokers increasingly have felt the pinch of lean trading days.

In the last few months the total of stock transfers has been pretty consistently below 1,000,000 shares daily, with the 5,000,000 plus days only a memory.

Since brokers' incomes are derived through commissions on purchases and sales, the split between the 1,375 members has been comparatively small. With fewer exchange members, it has been argued, individual incomes would be increased.

Story Is Different.

When hopes ran high in February of 1929, the membership was increased by 275 seats through granting each of the then 1,100 members the right to one-fourth of a seat which could be disposed of through sale or transfer within three years. The last of these rights was transferred March 3, 1932, bringing the total to 1,375.

With the newly increased membership then there was plenty of business to go around, but now the story is different.

If the stock exchange with its surplus funds could purchase seats of preferred for sale, it is argued by proponents of the plan, that would ease the pressure and increase income.

The value of seats in 1932, as established by sales, ranged from $185,000 to $450,000, the latter figure being the lowest for recent years. That year 101 seats changed hands.

Want Increased Income.

The next year the range was $250,000 down to $90,000, with 92 seats changing hands. This year the high and low points were at $300,000 and $70,000. So far this year 87 seats have been sold as against 84 in the same period of 1933.

Persons close to governing officials of the stock exchange say the members probably would not be interested in the increased value of their seats so much as in an increased income.

M. P. Luthy Is Promoted by Lumbermen's Mutual

Martin P. Luthy has been named assistant to the president of the Lumbermen's Mutual Casualty company, James S. Kemper, president, announced yesterday. N. C. Flanagan has been appointed manager of the business extension department to succeed H. J. Graham, who becomes associate manager and secretary of the Kemper organization central loss prevention committee.

Telaograph Corporation.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on Telaograph stock.—H. W. J.

Answer: Telaograph corporation manufactures and leases instruments for transmission of handwritten messages. Banks constitute the most important class of customers, with hotels ranking second. Since about three-fourths of the rental contracts are on five year bases, earnings have been relatively stable during periods of slack business activity. The company was not immune, however, to depression influences, which were somewhat accentuated by numerous bank closings.

Net income in the first nine months of 1934 equaled 58 cents a share, against 84 cents a share for the corresponding 1933 period. The four year record follows:

Year	Gross	Net	Inc.
1933	770,000	$240,000	$1.09
1932	690,000	$200,000	1.27
1931	690,000	$200,000	1.27
1930	690,000	$200,000	1.27

Current position at the close of 1933 was satisfactory. Current assets were about four times current liabilities. Capitalization is represented solely by 23,750 shares of common stock.

The stock pays 25 cents a quarter. It is medium grade and somewhat speculative.

Ohio Public Service.

Investors' Guide: Please advise as to Ohio Public Service 7 1/2, due 1946. Thank you for this service.—S. L.

Answer: Ohio Public Service company is an operating company controlled by Cities Service Power and Light company.

The company serves a highly industrialized section of Ohio, including such cities as Warren, Mansfield, and Sandusky.

The company has for a long period of time covered its bond charges by wide margins. Charges were covered 2.10 times in the year ended June 30, 1934.

Gross for 1933 was $7,919,000, against $8,295,000 for 1932, $9,439,000 in 1931, and $10,675,000 in 1930. Charges were earned 2.05 times in 1934, against 2.12 times in 1932, 2.33 times in 1931, and 3.09 times in 1930.

Although in 1933 the company paid to its parent company in the form of dividends $800,000 in excess of actual earnings, payment of $1,635,000 to the company on the amount due from Cities Service Power and Light resulted in a net improvement in current position. Working capital at the close of the year was $1,540,000, against $568,000 on Dec. 31, 1932.

There has been agitation in some communities served for municipal ownership, but ample earnings provide satisfactory current position, and absence of near term bond maturities entitle the first and refunding 7 1/2, due 1946, to be classified as a business man's investment.

Utility Issues Suffer Sinking Spell.

New York, Nov. 25.—(P)—The bond market presented a story in contrast during the last week.

In the early sessions of the week the utilities and rails were subjected to pressure, and even the United States government list was without any enthusiasm for the continuance of the preceding week's advance.

The utilities suffered a sinking spell, along with the stocks of these companies, following the President's Tennessee valley speeches in which it was indicated that government projects would be encouraged in order to lower the existing power rates.

Most of the second grade rails followed the utilities and a number of these failed to find any substantial portion of their declines. Among the reasons advanced for weakness in this division was the fear that the government would withhold loans for some of the roads, and it was also recognized that earnings of most of the lines would be far from satisfactory when the growing costs of operation were taken into consideration.

Map Liens Rally.

An exception to the depressed rails were liens of Missouri Pacific which moved up briskly on prospects of favorable reorganization plans which were expected to follow the meeting in New York of the trustees of the road with creditors and representatives of the R.R.C.

Bonds of the New York traction group came into demand on announcement that negotiations for unification of the subway were proceeding along lines which promised an agreement in the near future.

PACKING PLANT PRODUCTS VALUE ABOUT 1 1/2 BILLION

The aggregate plant value of the finished products of the meat packing industry in 1933 was $1,879,293, of which $1,199,274.57 was spent for materials, containers, fuel, electric energy, etc., according to figures made public yesterday by William W. Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers. The report is based upon an analysis of census figures from 1929 to 1933, and the United States department of commerce.

"As these figures demonstrate," Mr. Woods explained "the value added to packing house products by manufacture was $288,545,746, but by this amount more than $12,000,000 went to waste earners in 1933 plants, and additional millions of expense were incurred in such necessary items as taxes, rent, interest, depreciation, and insurance.

Therefore, despite the tremendous value of its finished products, profits in the packing industry were extremely meager, being barely equivalent to the heavy losses in 1931 and 1932 and so small that if they had been among live stock producers they would have received only a small fraction of a cent per pound more for their stock than they actually did receive."

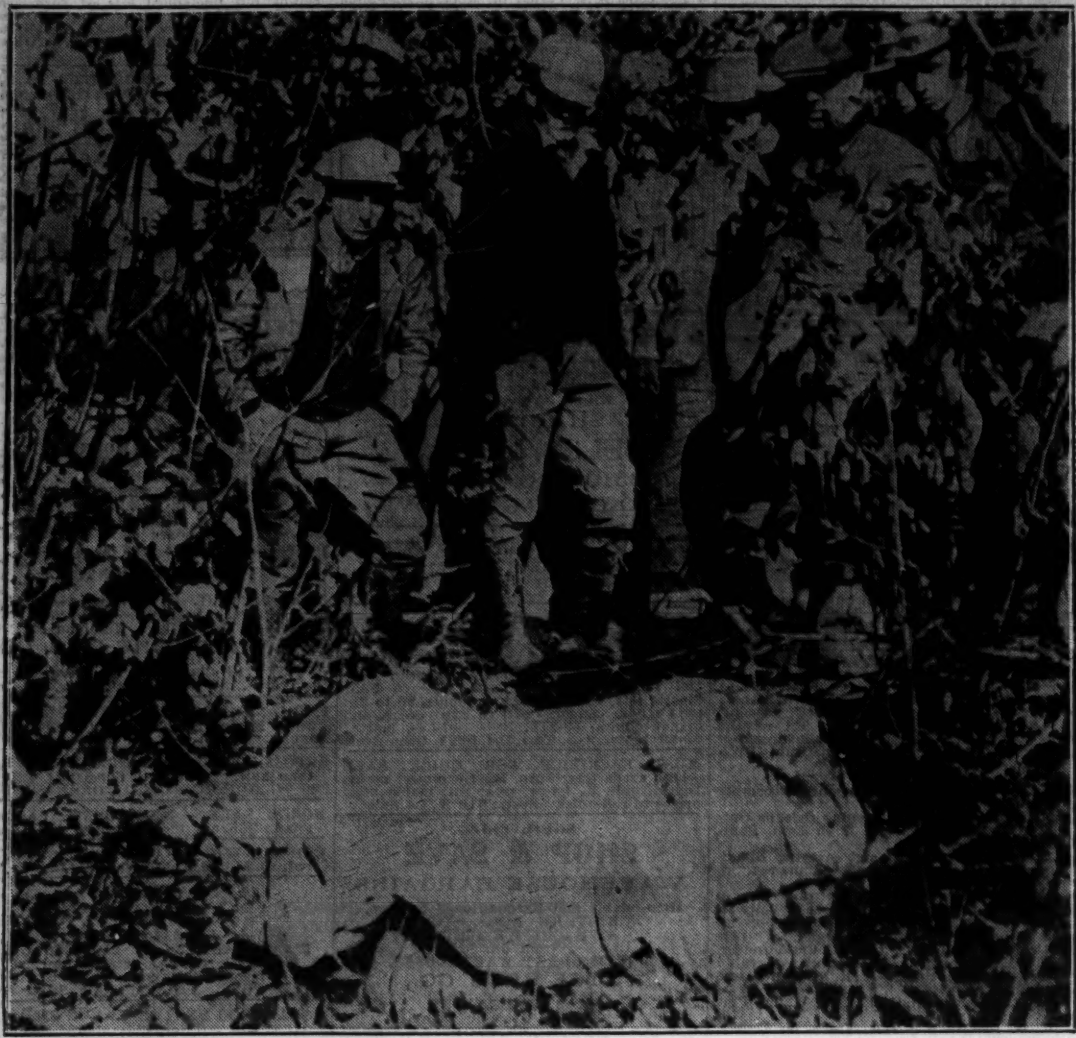

Specifically, however, it proposed that an agency similar in many respects to the housing administration, be set up to insure loans to industry for plant modernization.
